Every student and teacher has a notebook. In his notebook each records his own, personal thoughts, aspirations, and ideas. Thus each, separate notebook, when considered as a part of the composite whole, serves as a representation of each contributor to the life of the school.

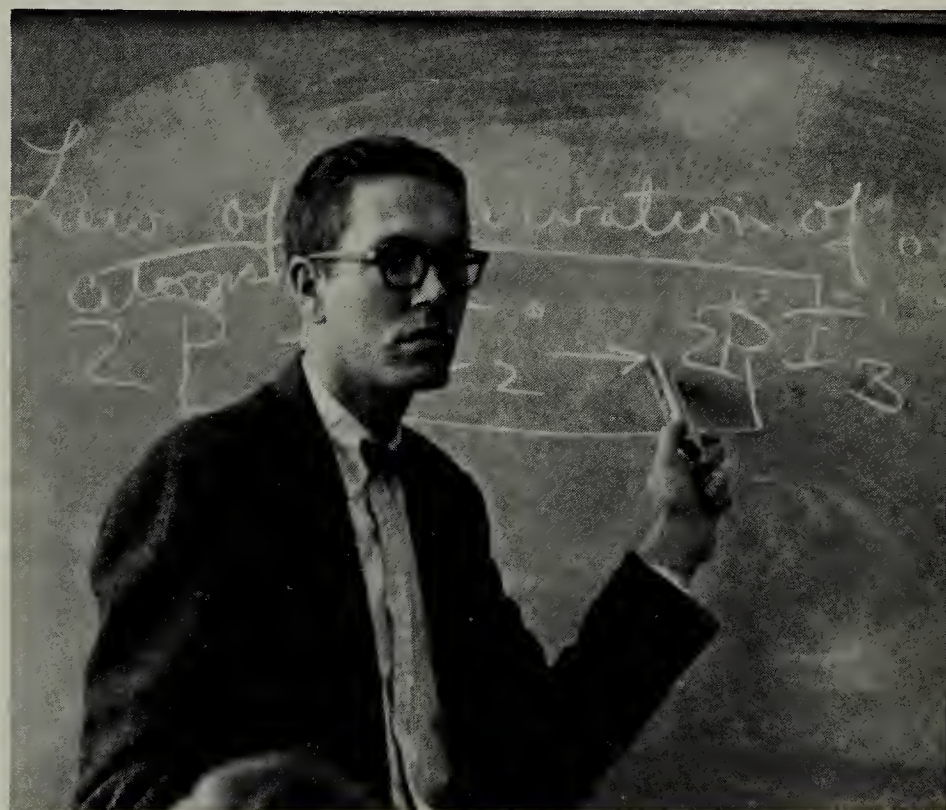

Whether individually or collectively, a school's contributors are ultimately what make it what it is. Administrators contribute by enforcing the organization and assuring the welfare of the school. Teachers contribute by prodding students to think—and to contribute themselves. Students contribute by sharing their opinions and talents with each other. Among the students, upperclassmen contribute by acting as leaders and examples for underclassmen who, in turn, make their contributions by suggesting and even reproving.

Some contribute more than others, some less. Yet each, simply because he is a part of the composite whole, is a contributor in his own way. And each notebook, mirrors the image of its contributor and his contributions. This is the essence of the "HCHS Notebook."

HCHS Notebook reviews 1965-66 school life

Mr. Burke to leave after six years' service

Mr. Carl Burke has been in the Science Department for six years, teaching biology, physics and chemistry.

Amid the crowded halls, his is usually the first face to be seen. Although he towers over students and faculty members alike, he has retained his good humor through the countless "How's the weather up there?" jokes.

He has served the school since the beginning of his six-year career. Science Department chairman, Science Club adviser, and Junior-Senior Prom committee member are a few of his contributions. He has even served the school in such unorthodox jobs as parking cars for graduation exercises, hustling drinks at home football games, and doubling for Santa Claus at the Christmas Assembly. After regular school hours, he may be found explaining a complex physics problem and he spends as much time at his atomic table as he does at his own table with his family.

More than just a teacher and adviser, he is a friend. He knows how to communicate with his students. Sometimes this requires humor, and he will rise to the occasion with a joke. Other times a serious and fatherly mood is required; he likewise gives mature advice and guidance.

Mr. Burke is now leaving and this school's loss will be another school's gain. So for his six years of service the 1966 yearbook is dedicated to Mr. Carl Whitt Burke, Jr.

Student life in '66 emphasizes participation

Participation was the essence of student life in '66—participation through . . . building floats, electing a queen and practicing football for the big Homecoming event . . . painting scenery, learning lines and dealing with opening-night jitters for the three dramatic productions . . . packing suitcases, preparing schedules and planning what to see for the many trips . . . campaigning all week, writing and giving the final speech and sweating it out until the winners were finally announced for class and SCA elections . . . contacting speakers, setting up chairs and practicing student parts for the several annual and special assemblies . . . transforming a gym, following new rules and entertaining seniors at the festive Junior-Senior Prom.

During Latin Club initiations, second-year Latin student Dick Sizemore, orders his "slave," first-year student Angela Hedgepeth, to find him a four-leaf clover.

Senior Bobbie East reigned as queen during one of HCHS's most festive events—Homecoming. A week long of float-building, band practices, and football-drills was climaxed by a parade through downtown South Boston on the afternoon of November 5. That night the peak of the festivity occurred when Queen Bobbie and her court were presented by Principal J. Marshall Swanson during the half-time activity.

The queen was elected by the student body, while her five attendants were each selected by their respective grades. The attendants were Hope Irby, grade twelve; Cheryl Swaim, grade eleven; Linda Walker, grade ten; Janet Lawter, grade nine; and Scottie Epps, grade eight.

The Pep Club emphasized Spirit Week preceding the football game played with the Abington Falcons. The Comets won the game 13-6.

Mrs. Dot Crews, play director, explains how she wants a certain scene played.

Onions in the Stew, Soldadera, and The People Versus Maxine Lowe—these were the three plays presented this year. Mrs. Dorothy Crews was director for all these plays. Miss Judy Cheatham assisted her with the first two.

The Fall Production, Onions in the Stew by Betty MacDonald, centered around a family-situation plot. It involved the adventures of a city family who had moved to a rural, island community, and the hilarious adjustments in their way of living that they had to make. One of these adjustments included the problem of being snowbound. This play was presented the night of November 19.

Soldadera was selected as the play to be presented in the District One-Act Play Festival at George Washington High School in Danville on March 5. It received an "excellent" rating. A suspense-filled drama, it dealt with the effects of a revolution on a band of homeless women.

The Spring Production was The People Versus Maxine Lowe by Luella E. MacMahon, on the night of April 29. It was a drama involving a murder trial with a surprise ending.

Members of the Soldadera cast were Betsy Branum, Lynn Maxwell, Teresa DeBruhl, Linda Smith, Carol Benner, Jim Fralin, Pam Gentry, and Ginger Harrison.

The play won an "excellent" rating in the Western District One-Act Play Festival.

Science students visited the Space Exposition in Danville during November 12-21. Sponsored by the National Aeronautics and Space Association, the exposition dealt mainly with space flights.

The annual Columbia Scholastic Press Association meeting in New York was March 8-12. Twelve journalists and Adviser Richard Fitz participated in the activity. Journalists also attended a newspaper clinic at the University of Richmond on November 13 and the Southern Inter-scholastic Press Association at Washington and Lee University on April 29-30.

Other clubs such as the Industrial Co-operative Training Club, the Future Teachers of America, the Future Business Leaders of America, the Future Farmers of America, and the Distributive Education Club attended regional, district, or state meetings.

into democratic process of voting for leaders

Through class and SCA elections students became aware of the democratic process of voting. A week long of campaigning, preceding the elections, made clear the platforms and the qualifications of the candidates. On Friday, students gathered to hear the candidates make their final appeals for votes. Afterwards, students went to their homerooms to cast their ballots for their choices.

Class elections were the second week in October, while SCA elections were the second week in February. Each candidate was nominated by a committee of representatives of the student body. Two candidates were nominated for each office, but other candidates were also petitioned by a certain number of students from the student body. An SCA amendment, passed this year, provided for a student-faculty-committee to review all petitions.

After marking her ballot, sophomore Mary Jane Roark gives it to her homeroom teacher, Mr. Henry Turner.

Humorous,informative,inspirational assemblies

Principal J. Marshall Swanson, Virginia House of Delegates member Dan Daniels, and County School Superintendent Udy Wood were all speakers at the Veterans' Day program.

Assemblies enriched the lives of the students by adding humor, knowledge, and inspiration to the scholastic day. Assemblies ranged from class assemblies to special assemblies like the Veterans' Day program in which students honored the American war dead. Mr. Dan Daniels, member of the Virginia House of Delegates, was a speaker at the Veterans' Day program.

The Christmas program featured selections by the band and choir. The highlight of this assembly came when Vandie Saunders, SCA president, presented Dr. W. W. Glass, South Boston Fire Department chaplain, gifts of food, clothing, and money to be distributed by the Fire Department to the needy families of Halifax County. The Easter Assembly in the spring reflected again the atmosphere of reverence.

Class assemblies all centered around certain themes. The seniors did a take-off on Class Night, while other grades used variety show themes. The annual Varsity-Faculty basketball game was held to raise money for the track team.

Pink cherry trees blossomed and Japanese lanterns glowed throughout the lobby and gymnasium, creating the Oriental atmosphere of "A Night in the Mystic East" for the Junior-Senior Prom on the night of May 13.

The Senior Class was entertained from 8 p.m. until midnight by juniors and their parents. In accord with the theme, but minus a "pi-pi" and "hsiian," musicians for the evening were the Mystics of Charlotte, North Carolina.

Later in the evening, senior girls and their escorts were presented in the annual Senior Figure. The couples formed the traditional Oriental fan, as well as the class numerals, '66. Refreshments were served throughout the evening in an Oriental rose garden.

The Junior Class began to plan early for the prom and every effort possible for realistic decorations was used. Though many Oriental traditions were observed, guests were not required to remove their shoes before entering the prom.

Advanced curriculum available for students

For the administration and faculty the school year meant: struggling to make room for 1900 students . . . explaining mathematical formulas and equations . . . grading endless stacks of test papers . . . attending 8:30 faculty meetings . . . patrolling noisy study halls . . . assisting with student assemblies . . . averaging grades . . . making out tests and exams . . . exchanging gossip and jokes in the teachers' lounge . . . trying to find enough time to do everything . . . giving extra classroom instruction after school . . . encouraging students to try harder . . . conducting chemistry experiments . . . assisting college-bound students . . . making dull subjects more interesting . . . giving current events tests . . . leading classroom discussions . . . answering endless questions . . . and just working, working, working.

HONOR FIRST

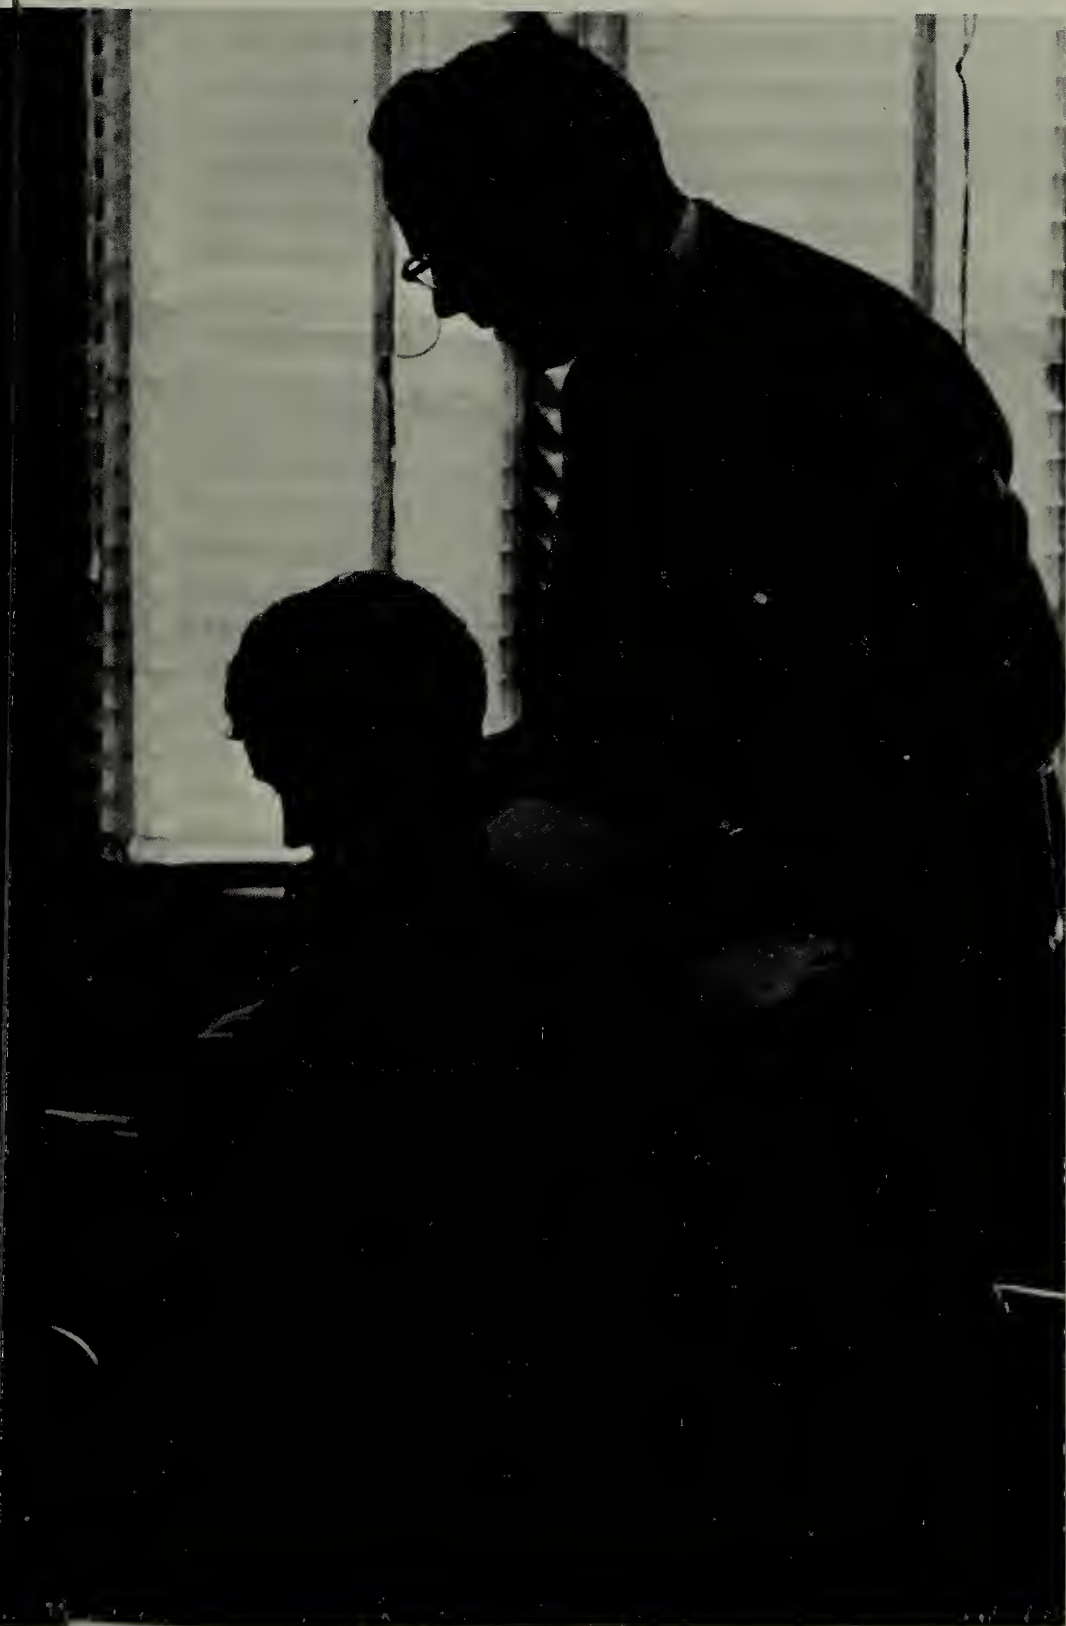

Teaching high school is full time occupation

Teaching is a full time job—one that requires a man to be a combination instructor, actor, counselor, and sage. He must be firm as a drill sergeant, patient as a snowy New England winter, understanding as a long-time friend and knowledgeable as the trusted Britannica.

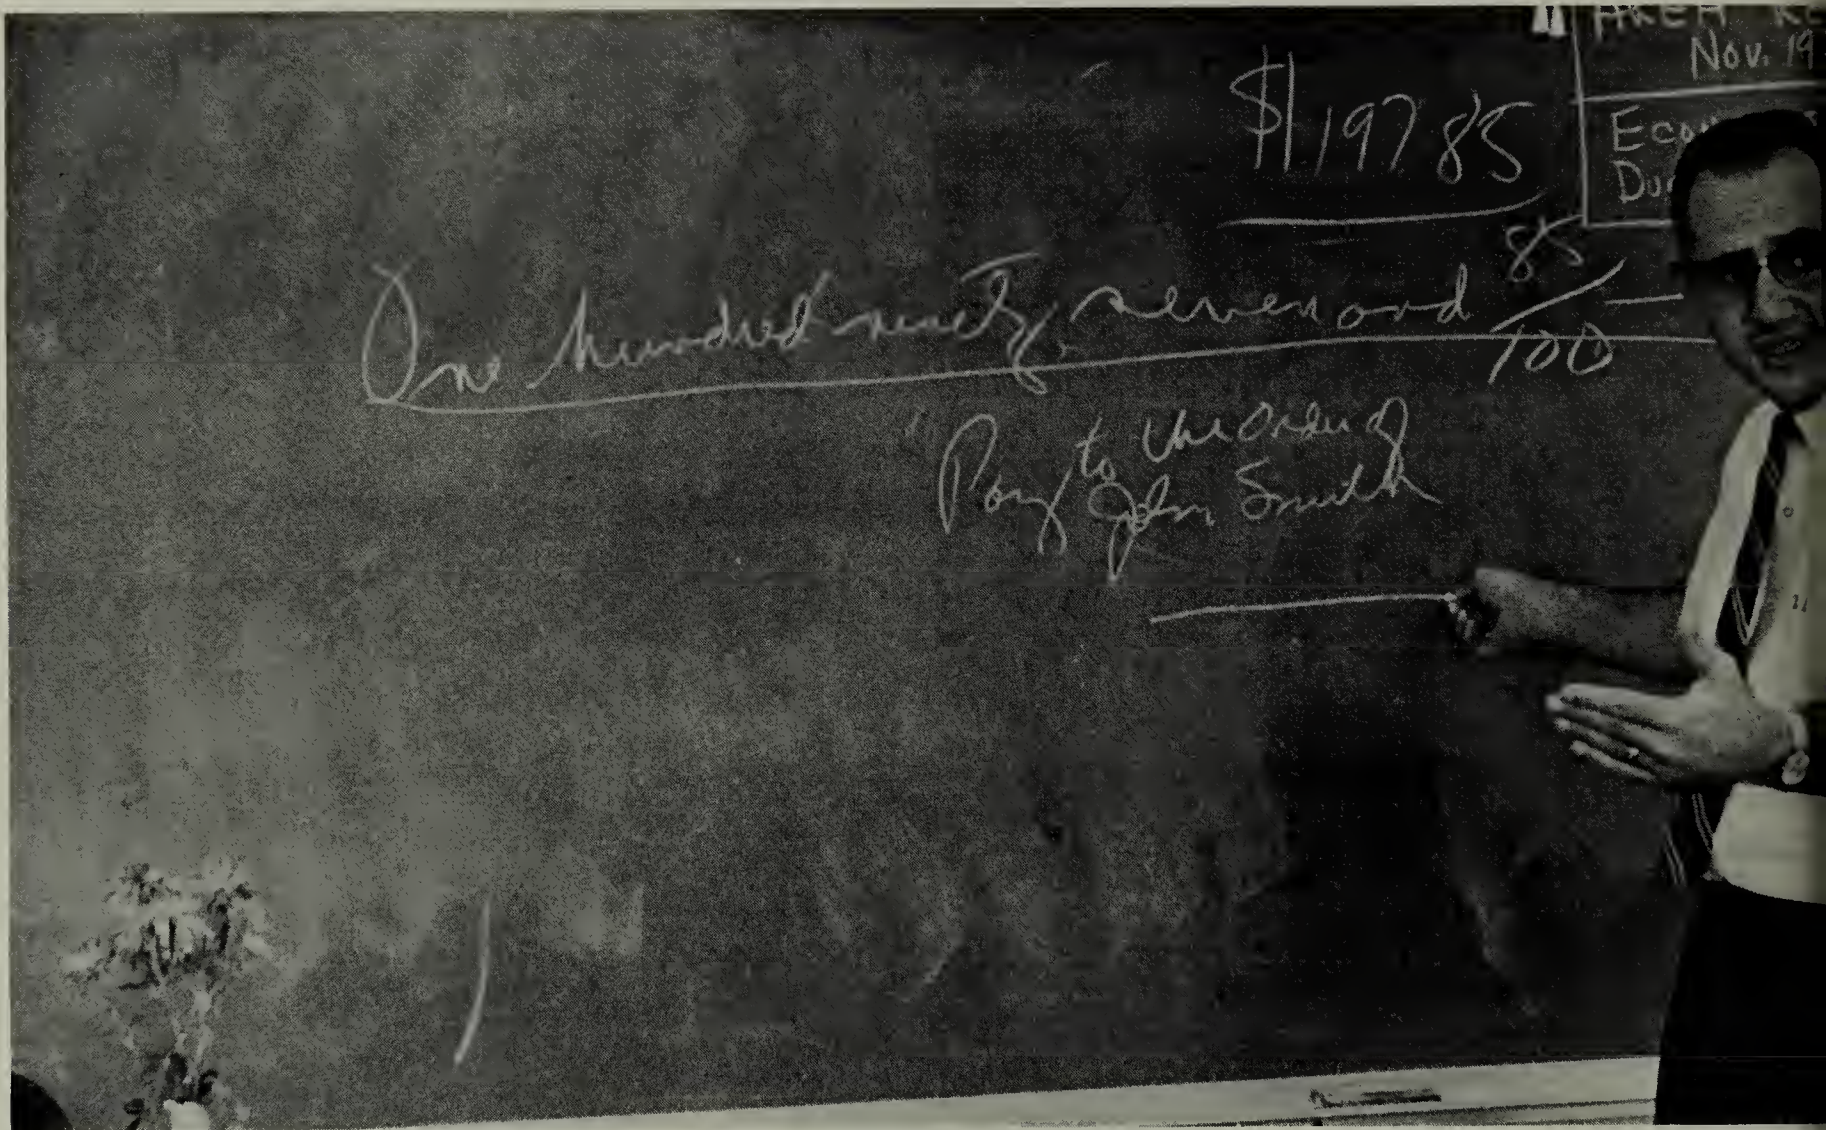

Along with the seventy-eight other classroom teachers, Mr. William Babcock finds sometimes that his day is taken up with most everything but teaching. And he can't remember the last time that his working day ended at 3:30 in the afternoon. But he still teaches.

For these pages the HALISCOPE staff has selected Mr. Babcock to symbolize the HCHS teacher, a man doing his job.

Seniors, who were skilled in typing and had taken the entire business course up to their senior year, were qualified to take Vocational Office Training. This course taught students office procedure through experience in downtown offices half of each school day.

Sophomores, juniors, and seniors could take typing and general business, while only juniors and seniors could take shorthand. Record-keeping was open only to juniors, while bookkeeping and transcription were only open to seniors.

Advanced senior typists in shorthand transcription classes typed articles for the STAR and HALISCOPE. Some students volunteered to do secretarial work for the main office and other departments.

Majoring in business, senior Susan Roark studies hard the methods used in record-keeping. She not only learns how to keep records accurately and responsibly but also to do them neatly.

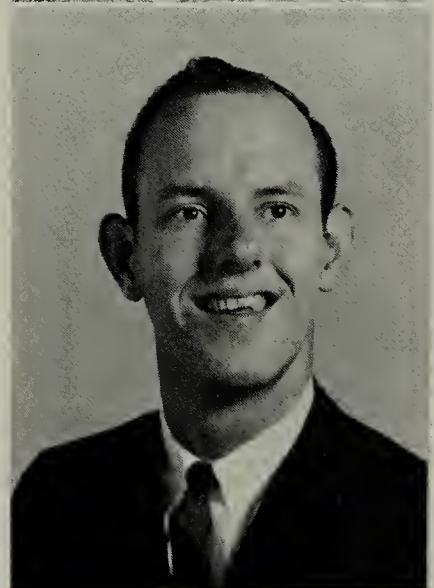

Students in Mrs. Fletcher's third period typing class practice typing letters to gain accuracy and speed for use in either the business world or for their own use.

Junior English teacher Miss Judy Cheatham and Virginia Hendricks read letters sent to English classes from Viet Nam.

A remedial reading course was the newest addition to the English Department. Financed by federal funds, the school set up a reading program for selected members of the freshman class. Planning to expand the program next year, the school board has ordered two additional mobile classrooms to provide space to carry out the course more extensively.

For the second year, seniors were able to develop their writing abilities through a contemporary composition course given to them through a Science Research Associates program. An overhead projector helped carry out the course.

Two innovations were made in the English Department's routine. The department met every Monday for discussions and the formulating of policies. They chose The Pearl, A Separate Peace and Swiftwater as required reading for juniors. Also each teacher was required to hand in a monthly report on the material covered and activities presented each grading period. A folder on each child was kept by the English teacher. In this folder the student filed themes and other papers to which he could refer the remainder of the year.

New machines and equipment gave the students of the Art Department an opportunity to explore their creative ability. Water colors, oil painting, sketching, pen and ink, and collage still remained the chief interests among the majority of art students. Several weeks of art appreciation are required of all art students so they might become aware of the "Masters" and their technique in painting or their particular style.

The Music Department included the Concert Band, the Cadet Band and the Beginner Band. Also included are the Concert Choir, the Ninth Grade Chorus, the Eighth Grade Chorus, and The Vocal Ensemble.

During the football season, the band performed at all home games and selected away games. The band also participated in the Veterans' Day parade and in numerous Christmas parades.

The band and the Concert Choir participated together in the Veterans' Day and Christmas assemblies. They also completed a stereo record album together.

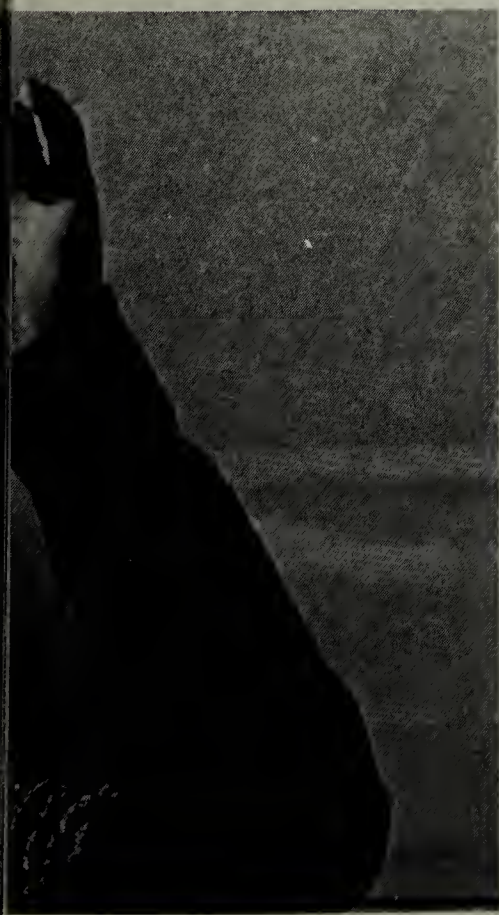

With a deep look of concentration, Mr. Jimmy Tussey rehearses the band for the Easter Assembly.

Highlighting the year for the Foreign Language Department was the annual participation in Language Week. This year the date of Language Week was May 2-6. The theme, "The World: A Reflection of its Language and People," was jointly decided upon by members of the Spanish, Latin, and French Club.

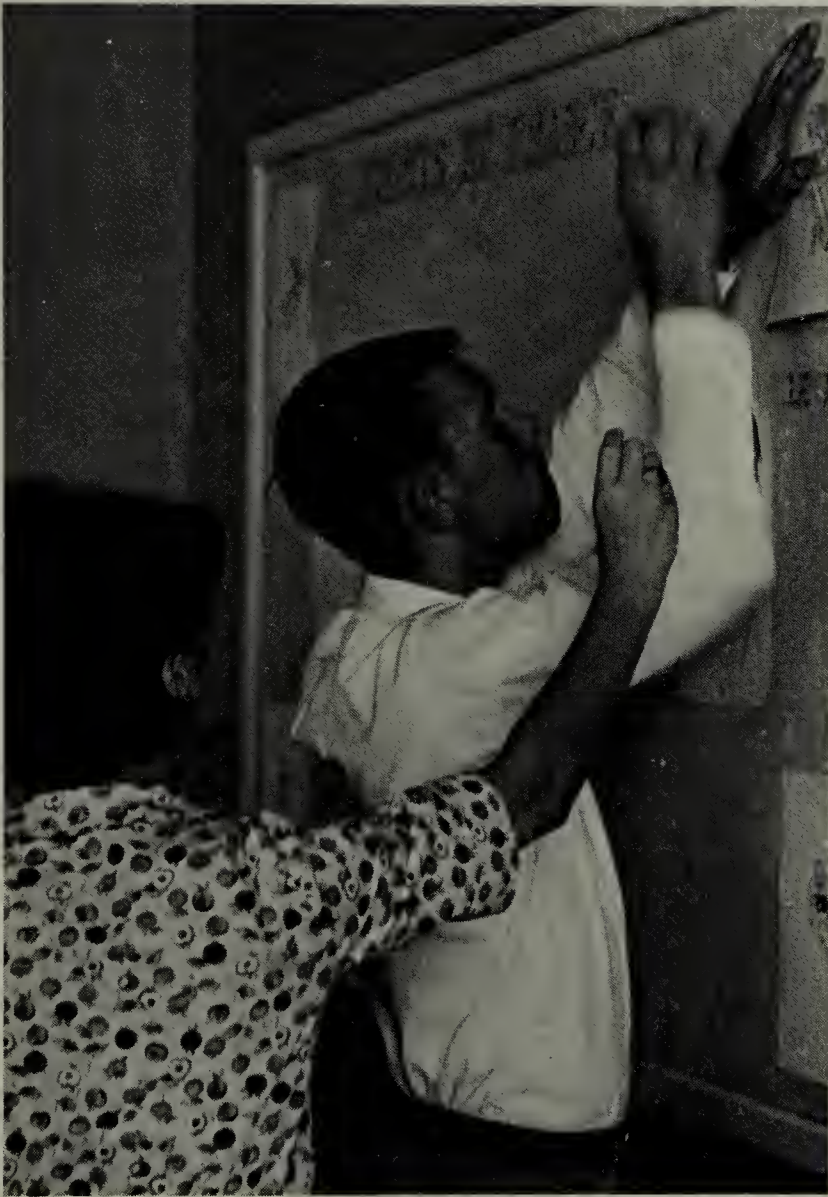

Activities of the week included bulletin board displays, devotional programs, publicity in The Star and county papers, a radio program, French, Latin, and Spanish magazines, and a banquet climaxing the week. At the language banquet a skit was presented by each language group.

The aim of the Foreign Language Department is to introduce students to the ideas and customs of other nationalities through the study of oral language and literature. The department attempts to reach these goals through the use of texts, tape recordings, and cultural centers.

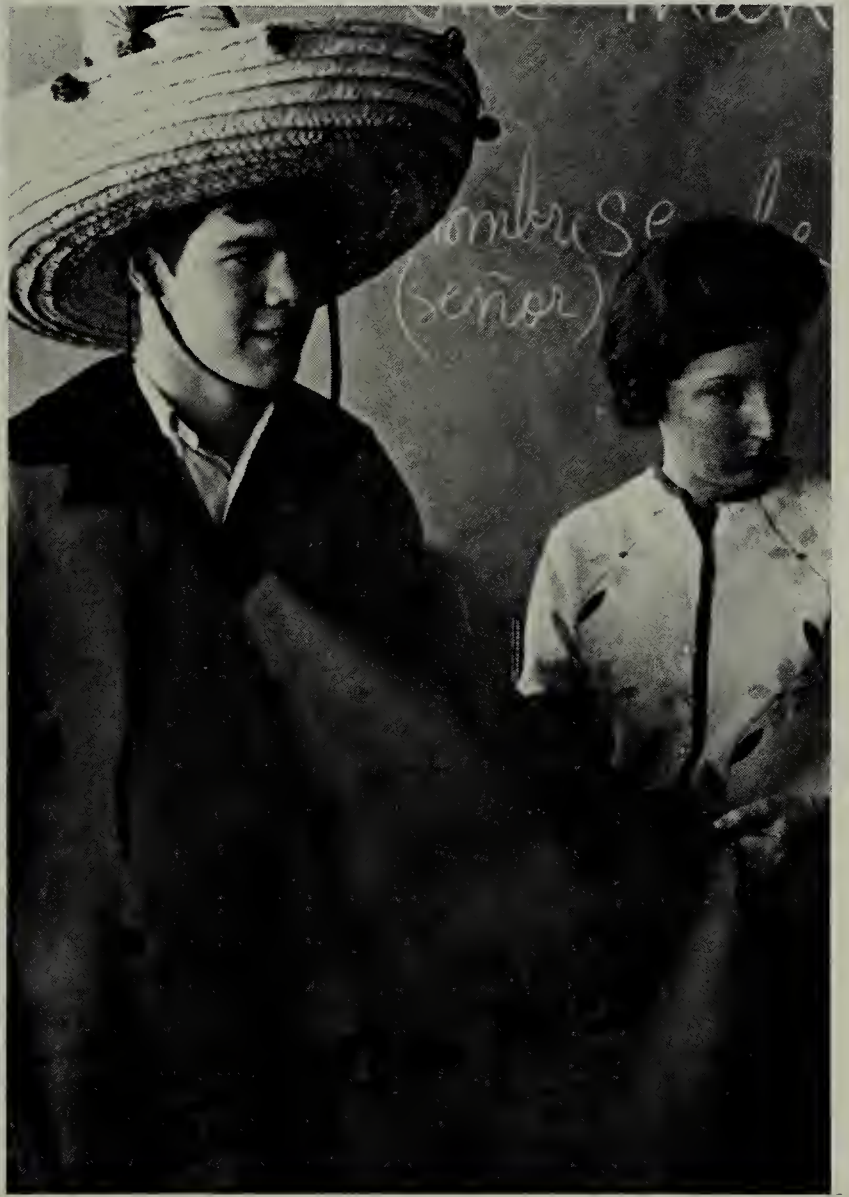

Each language group represented in the department has an associated club organized for the purpose of increasing interest in the language. This is done through programs and activities which provide a wide and comprehensive background knowledge and fun in songs, dances, games and dramatics.

Students may begin taking Latin or Spanish in Grade 9 while French is taught to grades 11 and 12. Two years of language are offered for the study of French and Latin while Spanish may be taken for a time up to four years.

Girls acquire new skills in home economics

Students in the home economics classes received instruction in the planning and preparation of meals as well as in the selection and care of garments. In addition, girls studied personal grooming, money management, child care and development, and home nursing. In each unit of study the girls carried out home projects relating to the area of study.

For the first time students were employed by the home economics teachers under a work-study program. These girls assisted the teachers with the classroom work, checked machines and equipment to see that they were in the proper working order, arranged the classrooms, and assisted with any paperwork.

Girls worked outside the classroom by serving at banquets and meetings, and by working as nurses aides in the local hospitals.

Home Economics is offered to girls in grades eight through twelve. Sociology, a half year course dealing with family problems, is offered to girls and boys in the eleventh and twelfth grades.

in woodworking skills

The Industrial Arts Department offered varied and valuable experience to the 235 boys enrolled.

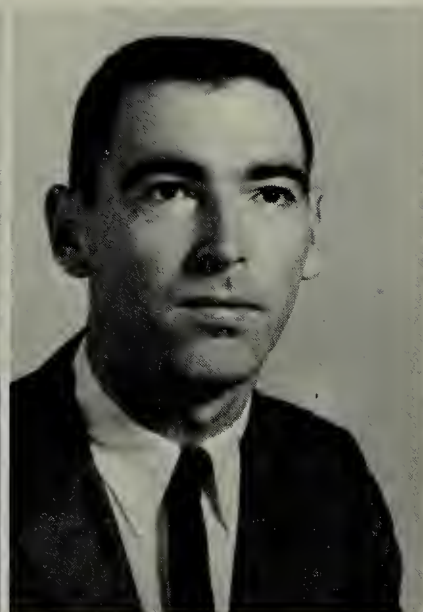

In the eighth grade, industrial arts covered only 18 weeks of work. Because of time limits, only fundamentals were taught in freehand sketching, woodworking and metalworking. The eighth graders made gun racks, hobby shelves, tool boxes and flower pot holders.

The ninth grade concentrated on mass production problems. They produced candle stick holders, adjustable drawing tables and matching swivel-top stools.

Projects of each grade were displayed during an "open house" in May.

This mathematical background included general math, Algebra I and II, geometry, trigonometry, Algebra III and consumer math. Next year a new course will be introductory analysis, and the department has worked to see that this course will be of benefit to the seniors who have completed Algebra III.

General math is offered to students in the eighth grade and ninth grade while some freshmen may elect Algebra I. Sophomores took Algebra II followed by plane geometry in their junior year. The seniors who had passed all of these subjects struggled with trigonometry and Algebra III.

Some eighth graders took the SRA math program. This program was voluntary and administered by the FTA members and special teachers who worked with the students the last six weeks of school. This type of math increases the students' accuracy and basic understanding of math problems.

Boys' physical education participates in Gymarama

The Boys' Physical Education Department tries to provide for the students' physical as well as mental skills. Physical Education is required of all students from the eighth through the tenth grades except for those students who take band.

A track meet, which was held during the latter part of the spring, included all boys enrolled in the department. This meet was held under the same rules as those of a conference meet and each boy could choose his favorite event in which to participate.

Coach Bennie Keister, a part-time physical education instructor, taught a course in driver education to freshmen the first semester. In this class students learned the basic rules of operating an automobile. First aid was also a part of the program.

A Gymarama, held in April, included boys from all the classes. They presented tumbling, a obstacle course race, weight lifting and basketball.

During the year the classes played football, softball, basketball and ran track and obstacle courses. Some classes played volleyball.

A ninth grade physical ed class plays volleyball during the Gymarama. The boys also ran an obstacle course.

Girls' Phys. Ed. offers intramural sports

The Girls' Physical Education Department organized the Girls' Athletic Association and sponsored the intramural program for girls through the GAA. This year the intramural program was more extensive and had more people involved in the program than ever before. The GAA sponsored a Sports-Playday and invited neighboring schools to take part in the program. An adult class in knitting was sponsored by the Girls' Physical Education Department.

Keeping the girls of the school fit and sponsoring adult knitting classes are not the only services the Girls' Physical Education Department does for the community. The most overlooked service of the department is its putting up chairs in the gym for assemblies.

The Girls' Physical Education Department also participated in the Gymarama. They tumbled, built pyramids, did a series of folk dances, and finally presented a modern dance routine. A ten-minute scrimmage of the girls intramural basketball teams highlighted the evening.

In Miss Walkup's ninth grade physical education class, the girls learn that basketball is a good way to help keep them fit. They also play such sports as volleyball and softball during the year.

The Science Department is continually striving to expose students to a general familiarization with the world of science. To help with this, the department sponsored an assembly by General Motors which informed the student body of the many opportunities in the world of science.

In all its work, the department teaches students to think critically in solving problems found in or outside the classroom. They are instructed in the use of scientific equipment through classroom laboratory use. It is hoped that when students leave their science classes, they will have developed either a vocational or a leisure-time interest in the field of science.

New textbooks adopted by the county textbook committee have been a welcome change for teachers as well as for pupils. Field trips and the Science Fair in the spring were the major projects of the department.

Required courses capture students' interest

For the first time, government students were required to take a six weeks course in economics in addition to a six weeks course in communism, which was innovated a few years ago. In this course, the students learned mostly about the stock market. They bought stock in it and kept a graph of the stock's progress.

During the Virginia gubernatorial and area delegate elections, students conducted polls through their government classes to determine which candidate was the favorite. Mills Godwin and Howard Anderson were the students' choices by a large margin.

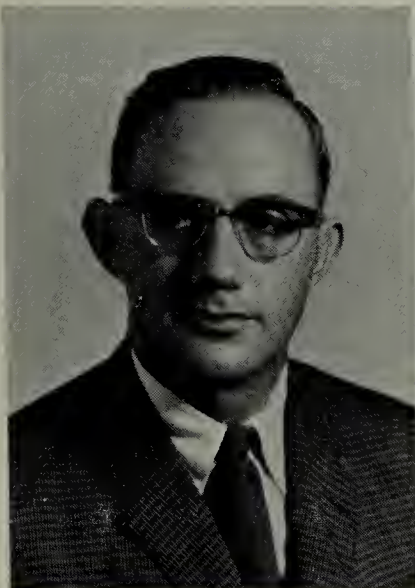

Several history classes visited the Virginia Museum artmobile on its last visit here. The collection which centered around seventeenth century art, tied in with the subject matter the students were taking at this time.

In many of the geography classes, the teachers helped students learn the location of certain countries through the use of the SRA map program. As the student improved, he moved to the next level until he reached the top.

The Social Studies Department continued the Senior Government Day this year. During this day, students worked with officials to help create good will in the community and to learn how city and county governments function. A committee composed of teachers and students appointed students to positions and nominated students for elected positions. Seniors registered in government classes following the same procedure as registering to vote in Virginia.

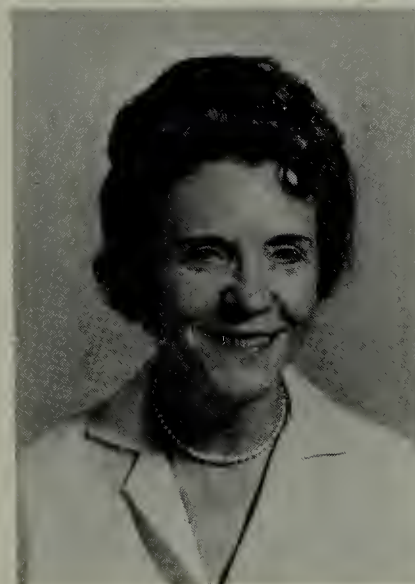

Geography, economics, world history, U. S. History, and U. S. Government were courses the Social Studies Department offered this year.

The Vocational Agriculture Department offered courses to boys in the eighth through twelfth grades. Here boys learned new and better farming methods.

In the shop, boys learned the fundamentals of arc-welding, tool-fitting, electricity, wood-working and tractor maintenance. In the classroom, boys learned proper methods of cultivating and harvesting various crops and caring for farm animals.

The Vocational Department is made up of the Distributive Education classes and the Industrial Cooperative Training classes.

Distributive Education classes are designed to train young men and women for full time employment in a distributive occupation after graduation, either in retail, wholesale or service establishments.

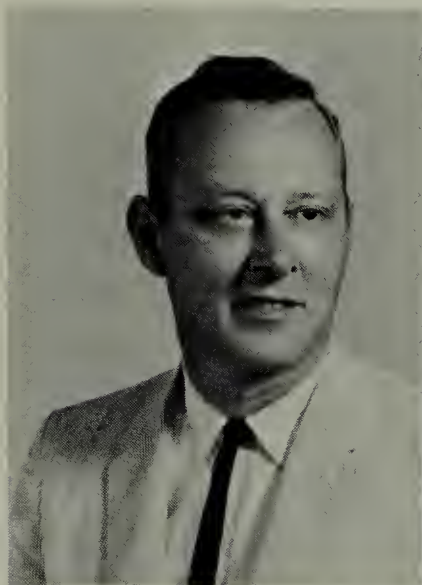

The Industrial Cooperative Training Program is a plan for training qualified juniors and seniors in technical and medical occupations. It is an arrangement between business, industrial and professional establishments in the community and the high school for the establishments to furnish part-time employment and training to students during school hours and the school to furnish the technical subject matter related to the occupation.

Students in the vocational department aid the school with projects. They occupy many jobs throughout the county in many different fields.

Competing with a sore ankle, senior trackman Don Burton clears 5' 10" to capture first place in the high jump event at the home meet against Franklin County.

Executing a perfect hook slide, David Compton safely steals third base giving the Comets a good scoring opportunity in the home game against George Washington. The Comets won 9-4.

Blue Comets finish season with 4-5 record

With a mid-season record of three wins and two losses, the Comets suffered a tremendous loss when first-string quarterback Kenny Hinton was injured in an automobile accident. As a result of this accident, Hinton could not participate in the remaining games of the season.

In addition to losing Hinton, the nucleus of the offensive unit, the Comets were also plagued with numerous other injuries throughout the season.

After losing three consecutive ballgames, the Big Blues won a hard-fought victory in the final contest of the season. A fired-up group of seniors gave the hometown fans a real thrill when they ended their high school football career with a 13-6 win over the Abingdon Falcons in the Homecoming game. In this game Joe Conner, Comet punter, averaged well over 40 yards per punt, ranking him among the top 10 high school punters in the state.

At the end of the season, Hinton was selected to represent the Comets on the All-Western District second team for his fine performance at his quarterback position. Backs Vandie Saunders and Larry Snead and ends Melvin Cliborne and Freddie Cox received honorable mention.

All cheerleaders sell Comet cushions

Selling Comet cushions during football season to raise money for transportation to away games was one of the cheerleaders' new activities. As in the past, they also helped the Booster Club by selling seasons tickets and showed their school spirit by selling ads for the Homecoming program.

Also during Homecoming Week, the cheerleaders helped the SCA with its Spirit Week campaign by making banners and posters and by having a pep rally with a skit called "Hally Facts and the Toad." To climax Homecoming for the squad, the varsity cheerleaders' float won a third place rating.

Besides their regular duties of making banners and having pep rallies to increase school spirit, the cheerleaders presented cakes to the boys at almost every home basketball game to spur them on to victory.

New cheerleaders were chosen at tryouts during April. The new squad then sponsored a Miss HCHS beauty contest at the SCA Spring Fair.

Butch Bennett drives hard to sink two easy points in GW game played on the home court.

The Big Blue cage team ended the season with a 5-14 won-lost record which included two Western District wins. Although this is not the best record ever, it shows improvement over last year's record in which there were no district wins.

Coach Bill Morningstar, a Comet great of 1960 who returned to his Alma Mater to be cage mentor, commented that the record "wasn't bad, but it wasn't good." He added that the boys did a good job and worked hard. "The Western District as a whole was strong," pointed out Coach Morningstar. Too, the Blues lost a few close ones which hurt. Many times the team led in the games only to lose by a narrow margin.

Experience and ballhandling were the two main weaknesses of the team, Coach Morningstar pointed out. He said that he had seven seniors on the team but that he started several juniors. For the juniors, this was their first year of varsity basketball and the first year for several seniors also.

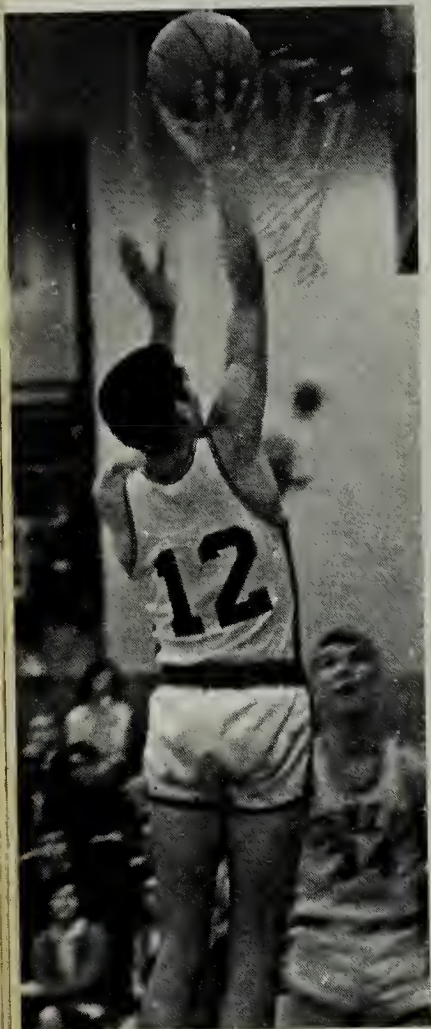

"I am looking forward to next year," commented Coach Morningstar. He said he would just mark this year down as a year of experience. Since the JV team did well this year with a 9-9 record, they will certainly add strength to the varsity squad next year. "We should be better, record-wise, next season," he concluded.

Clearing 5' 6" with ease, Don Burton adds another first place to his many other top achievements in track.

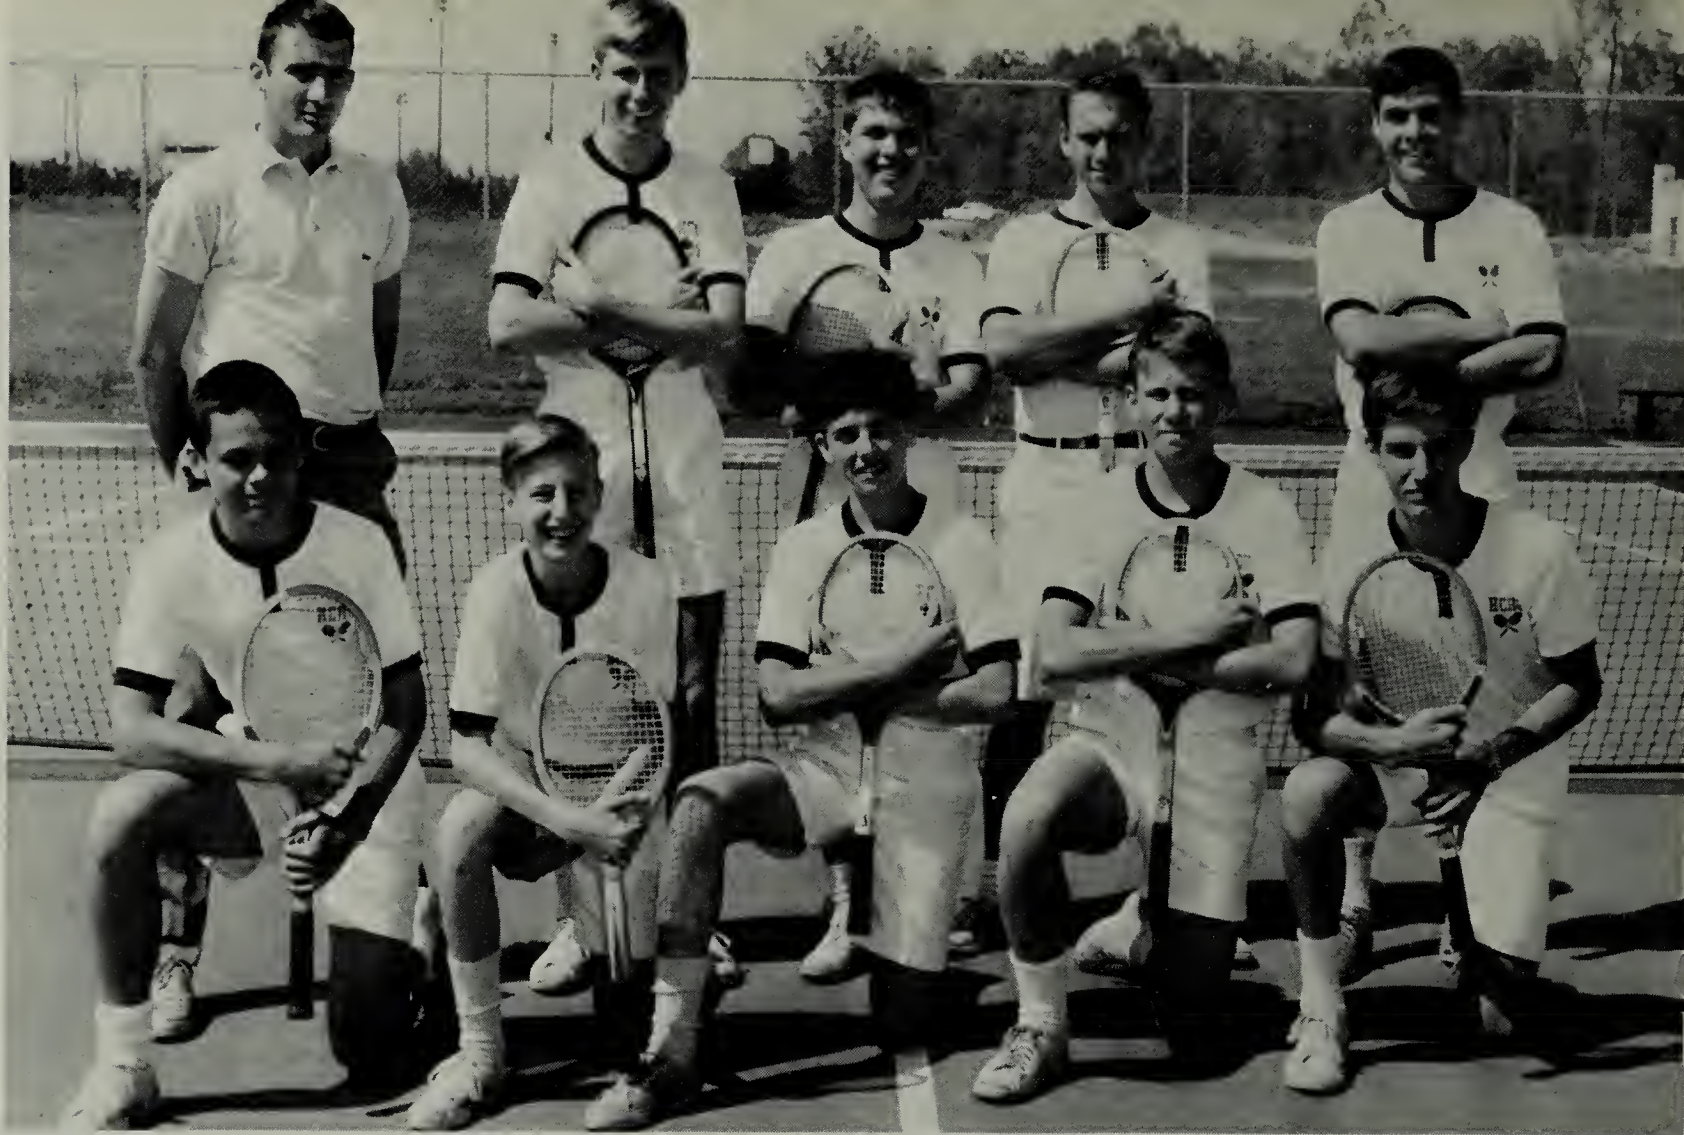

Because of his fine performance in the district meet, he participated in the state meet.

The track team, with a 8-2 record, had the best season HCHS cindermen have ever had. The big win of the season was over George Washington of Danville which is the biggest rival the Comets have. Victories over Bassett and Bluestone also looked big in the Halifax won-lost record.

The thinclads set six new school records in their record-breaking season: Larry Sneed in the high hurdles, Don Burton in the high jump, Mitch Wilborn in the discus, Kenny Hinton in the broad jump, Tommy Eggleston in the 880 and L. Volleyball Sports Day

The Girls' Athletic Association, one of the new organizations begun this year, met with great success and may even become part of the national GAA clubs next year. As the basis of girls' intramural sports, the GAA sponsored football, basketball, volleyball, softball, tennis and bowling. Each girl must play at least four sports to earn the 100 points needed to get a membership pin.

For each sport, the girls split into teams which played each other in tournaments for the championship. The tennis team, in addition to intramural games, also played girls' teams from neighboring schools.

In April the GAA held a Volleyball Sports Day with five other schools. Although competition was keen, it was meant as more of a social day and included a luncheon.

SCA initiates

New activities and new fields of interest were the key notes for the Student Co-operative Association. For the first time a baby-sitting service for teachers was established to permit them to attend school activities and to improve SCA-teacher relations. A suggestion box was put in the library so students could voice their opinions and thus feel more a part of the SCA.

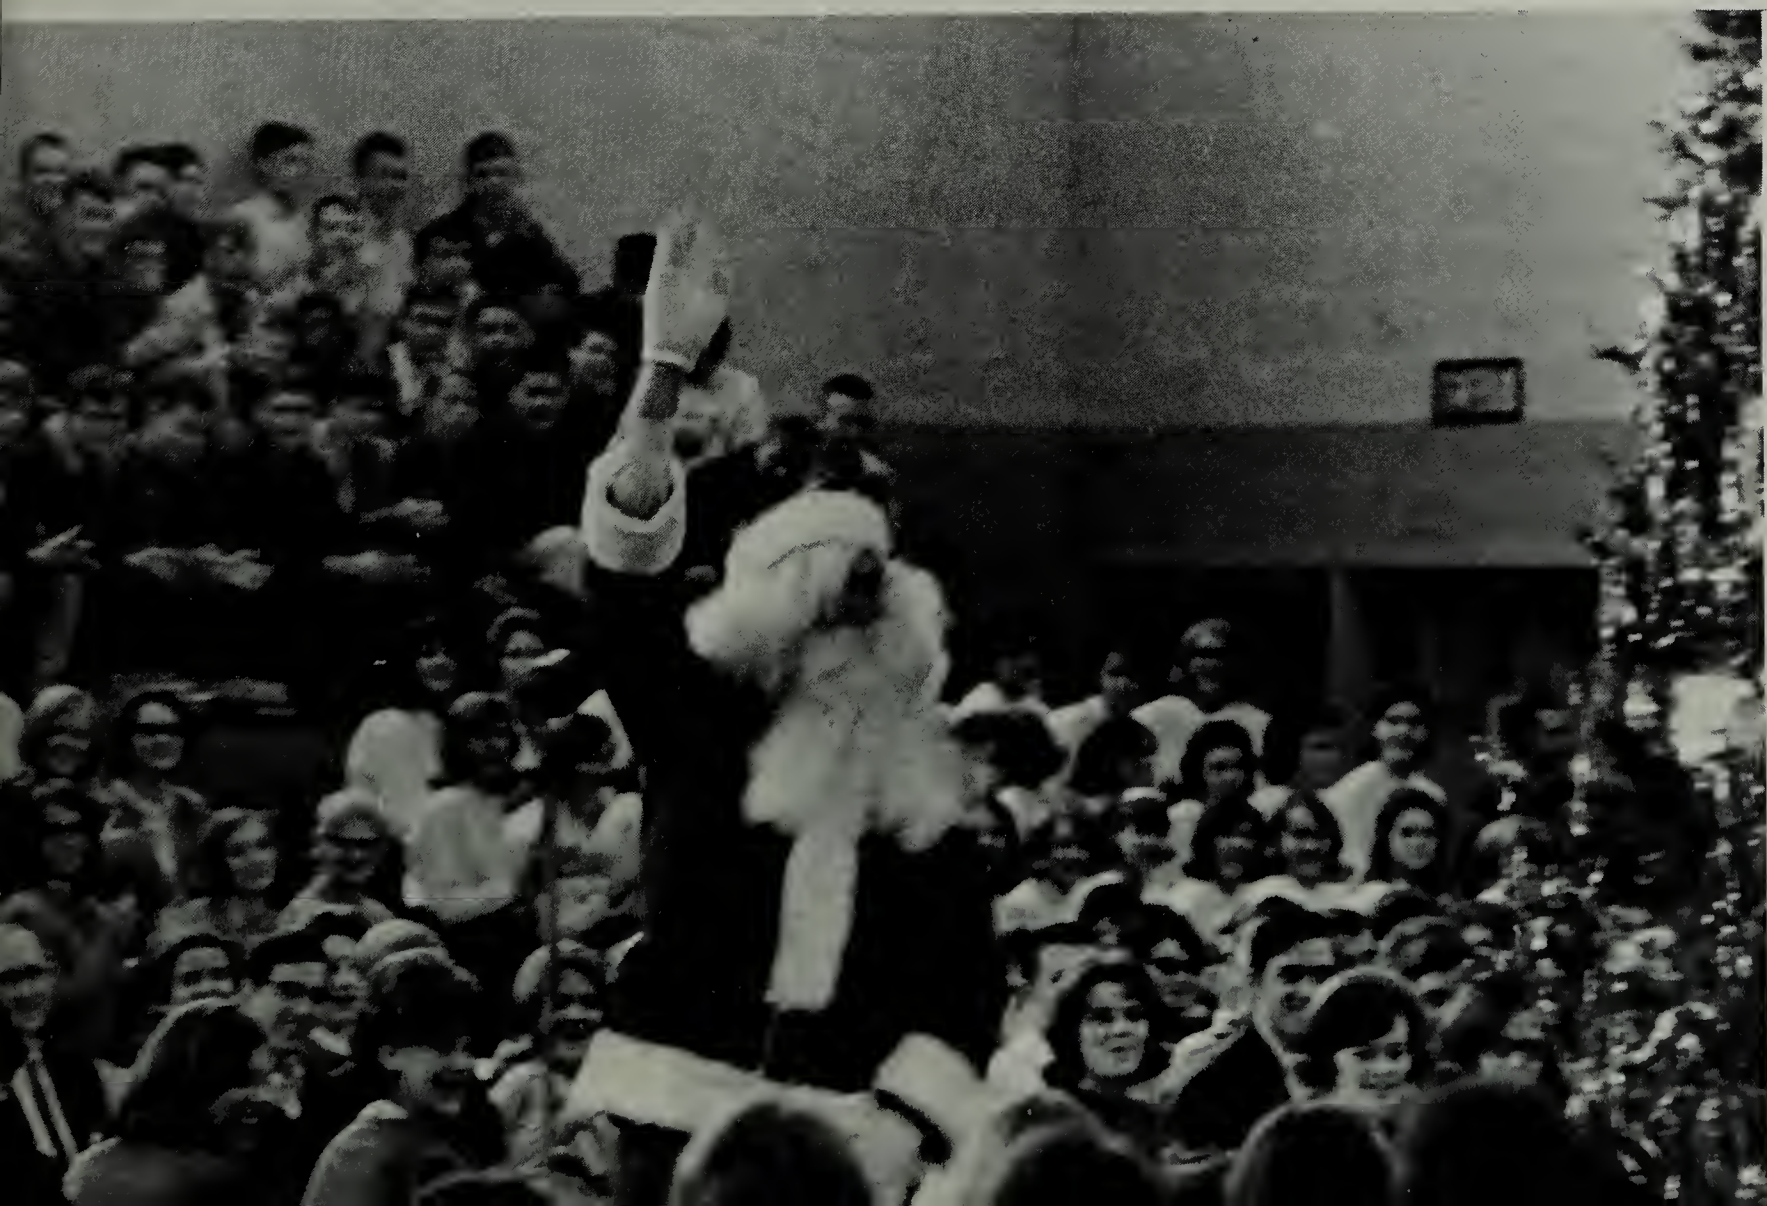

An open meeting for all students was held late in the spring to include more students in the organization. The day of the Easter Assembly was Dress-up Day as all of HCHS donned Sunday clothes. These activities helped promote the aim of better student and faculty participation in SCA programs.

Spirit Week was held for the first time during the week of Homecoming to encourage school spirit. During Honor Week, in May, a skit was presented to demonstrate an effective honor system. Safety Week featured American Automobile Association cards for student drivers without a traffic violation. A cafeteria clean-up campaign was established to encourage student pride in a clean cafeteria.

Two new amendments were added to the SCA constitution this year, one concerning Class elections and one concerning SCA elections.

As in the past, the SCA held class elections in October. Then came Homecoming, with the Homecoming programs and the queen's float. The SCA sent delegates to the Staunton River District SCA meeting in October at Randolph-Henry High School. In December came the annual Christmas Drive for toys, clothes, food and donations. Santa Claus even paid a surprise visit during the assembly. Safety Week followed close behind SCA elections in February. Then came Honor Week and the Spring Fair. The last job performed by the SCA was the installation of new officers.

sale in fall, inducts new members in spring

Two stationery sales highlighted the activities of the National Honor Society. Profits from the project were awarded as a scholarship to a senior in the organization. Other activities included providing marshals and ushers for graduation exercises and sponsoring a booth in the SCA Spring Fair.

During the inductions in March, eighteen members from the senior class were tapped into the society. In order for a student to be eligible for membership, he must have a 90 average for all courses taken in high school. Teachers rate each of these students in the areas of character, leadership and service. The rating ranges from a superior score of four to a poor score of one. Those students who have a 3.5 or above average rating are then reviewed by an Honor Council made up of at least one member from each school department. This council chooses the students who will be inducted into the NHS.

Junior inductions were held in May in conjunction with Honor Week.

Studying to maintain the 91 average required of members are Kathy Roark, Becca McKinney and Tuck Dillard.

Tension and expectation hung over the gym as 35 old members of the National Junior Honor Society prepared to induct the new members on May 17. Only outstanding students in the eighth, ninth and tenth grades were eligible for membership. As old members came into the audience to tap the new ones, everyone reviewed in their minds the requirements of the society. Students inducted are required to have excelled in scholarship, leadership, character, service and citizenship.

Before being considered for membership, however, a person must first have an academic average of 91 or above. If he meets this requirement, faculty members then rate the student on the remaining qualities.

Serving as guides for the annual College Career Night was one of the services provided by the society. NJHS members also explained the opportunities offered in high school to elementary students, touring during the seventh grade orientation days in the late spring.

Quill and Scroll chooses 21 top journalists

New members ordered Quill and Scroll pins. Here Barbara Bennett receives hers from Dick Sizemore.

Twenty-one new members joined the former seven in Quill and Scroll. Membership in the national journalism society is offered to students who have worked on one of the three publication staffs for at least one semester and who have an over-all average of 85 or above.

With these qualifications, the journalists were recommended by their sponsor, Mr. Richard Fitz, and approved by the national office of the Quill and Scroll at the State University of Iowa.

Varied activities showed the society's interest in its work. Five members attended the Columbia Scholastic Press Association convention in New York City from March 9-12, hearing lectures and discussions which were valuable to high school writers.

Members also ordered Quill and Scroll pins or charms which identified their respective staff positions.

Continuing their work on the STAR, HALI-SCOPE, and GALAXY staffs, some members made applications for journalism scholarships and future journalism studies.

Drama highlights Thespian Troupe playbill

Drama was the most popular addition to the Thespian Troupe's playbill of performances for this season.

Comedy was not neglected, however, as the cast of "Onions in the Stew" entertained a full house on opening night with the hilarious misfortunes of a family's island life.

For the One-Act Play Festival at George Washington High School, seven girls and one boy portrayed the tragedians of "Soldadera." Their long hours of nightly rehearsal and concentrated character study proved worthwhile when the performance was rated "excellent" in the Western District competition.

Students who have participated in two plays, either in an on-stage role or with the stage crew, are awarded points necessary for membership in the National Thespian Troupe.

The Spring Production, with a cast of thirty, was the first full-length drama to be presented in several years. The Spring Production was "The People Versus Maxine Lowe," concluding the season for Troupe 1418.

Learning lines and practicing every night is a large part of a play's success or failure. Lynn Maxwell and Jim Fralin practice their lines during a reading session of "Soldadera."

Math society sponsors math emphasis week

Induction of new members into Mu Alpha Theta was the highlight of events of Math Week, sponsored by the society. Other activities of the week included a bulletin board contest among the math classes, various displays throughout the school and an induction party for new members. "To call students' attention to the various aspects of mathematics" was the purpose of Math Week, according to Miss Mildred Henderson, Mu Alpha Theta sponsor.

To be eligible for membership in Mu Alpha Theta a student must have a 90 or above average for all subjects taken since entering high school and must have had at least two and one-half years of mathematics. New members are also required to complete a project dealing with some timely and appropriate phase of mathematics. The purpose of Mu Alpha Theta, according to Miss Henderson, is to "recognize those students who have done outstanding work in mathematics."

Language societies recognize top students

Publishing a newspaper was the main activity of the National Spanish Honor Society. Fifth year Spanish students consumed much of their time writing articles, short stories, and book reviews for the publication that was sold during Language Week.

In order for a student to be eligible for membership, he must have at least a 90 average for all subjects taken in high school. According to Miss Hilda Melton, Spanish Honor Society sponsor, the purpose of the organization is to encourage students to continue the study of Spanish.

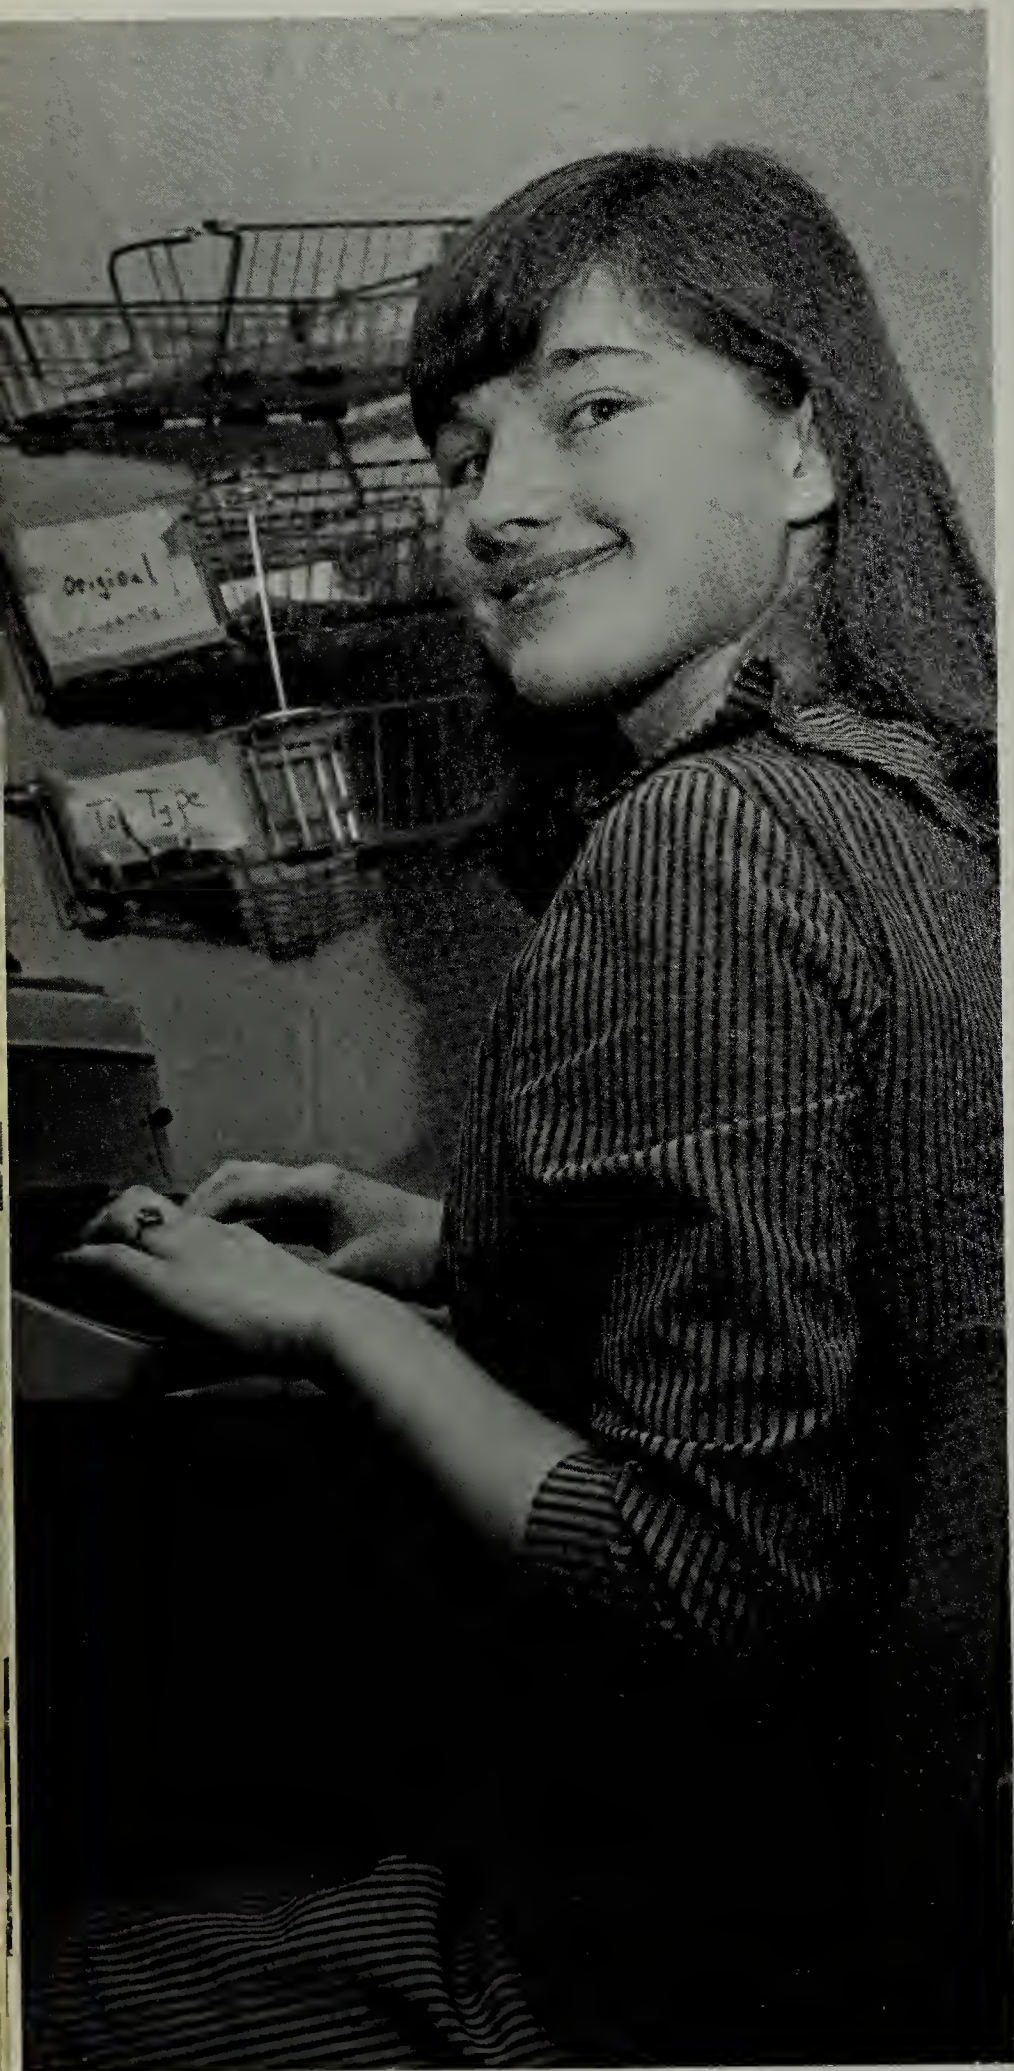

The French Honor Society, unlike the Spanish society, is not affiliated with any national organization. Miss Francis Howard, French Honor Society sponsor, explained that under national regulations membership would be limited to 10 per cent of the students taking French. "But I want to honor all students who do well in French," she commented. The only requirement for membership is a 92 or above average in French.

Both societies inducted new members during Language Week in May.

Since the establishment of Halifax County High School, the HALISCOPE has served as a record-keeper of clubs, organizations, sports, teachers, the student body and important events. Published annually, the yearbook offers a full account of school life in pictures and words.

In the fall, Mr. R. J. Fitz, publications adviser, selects students to work on the yearbook. Most of these students are from his Journalism 12 class. From these students, he chooses an editor-in-chief, an editorial board, and staff members. This year seventeen seniors, one junior, two sophomores and one freshman make up the staff.

Surpassing all previous records, the HALISCOPE sales record reached a peak of 975. This topped a previous record by seventy-five books. Also, a first this year was offering name-printing to all interested seniors. For an additional fifty-cents, seniors were able to have their name printed on the cover of the HALISCOPE.

contests, expands magazine circulation

Money is a never-failing attraction for students; using this bit of teenage psychology and promises of financial reward, the GALAXY sponsored two literary contests to increase student interest in creative writing.

"Not Able to Kill," a story of modern realism by Dick Sizemore, won $10 in the short story contest for the winter issue. A poetry contest, featured in the spring issue, awarded $5 to Wendy Wilburn for "Worlds."

The new size and style of the GALAXY attracted many readers both in the school and in South Boston businesses. To evaluate its accomplishments, the GALAXY was entered for judging at the SIPA Conventiin and Virginia High School League competition.

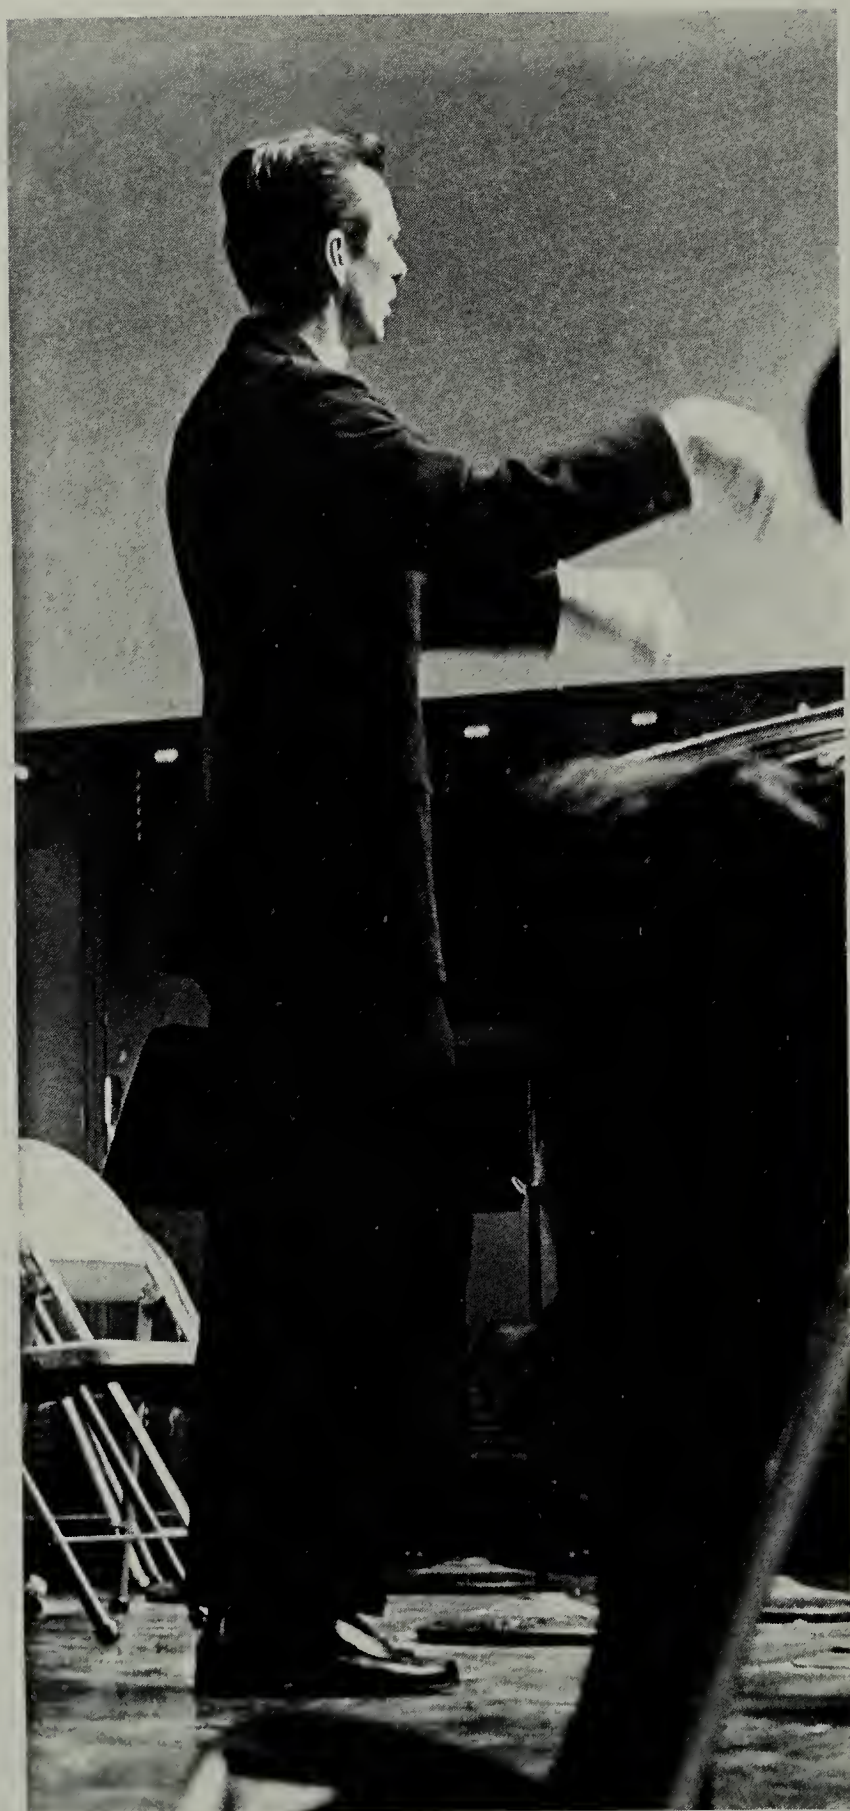

Publishing a school magazine, like publishing any valuable work, must present a true picture of students' literary and artistic talents. This was the aim the GALAXY sought and—hopefully—achieved.

Material for each issue is carefully read and edited. Here, student contributions are reviewed by Janice Earp, assistant editor; Betty Wooding, editor-in-chief; Danny

The Concert Choir, directed by Mr. Jimmy Tussey, does "How Lovely is Thy Dwelling Place" from Brahms

Requiem before the entire student body of Halifax County High School at the annual Christmas Assembly.

The Concert Choir is a mixed chorus of 94 voices. In order to belong to the choir, a student has to audition in the spring before the choir director, Mr. Jimmy Tussey. Mr. Tussey then selects the persons whom he considers to be the best qualified.

The choir performs at the Veterans' Day, Christmas and Easter assemblies. They also perform at the National Honor Society inductions.

In addition, the Concert Choir and the Concert Band give a public concert at Christmas. The choir also gives a public concert in the spring. Also in the spring, the choir presents a music program at several elementary schools and participates in the graduation exercises.

In conjunction with the band, the Concert Choir made a stereo record album this year. The album was available for purchase by the band and choir members and any other interested persons.

Bus drivers concentrate on safety practices

The Bus Drivers Club finished its fourth year, still concentrating upon the important factor of safety first. These students were, this year, led by Mr. Worth Hudson, assistant principal.

The student drivers feel that driving a bus helps a person to mature more fully because of the responsibility placed on the driver. This responsibility includes keeping a close schedule as well as insuring the safety of the lives of the students who ride the bus to and from school each day. To them, driving a bus is simply a seventh period, requiring as much time and concentration as any other subject.

Officers of the club were president, Bill Slagle; vice-president, Bert Holt; secretary and treasurer, Sherman Fisher; reporter, Joe Younger and sergeant-at-arms, Stewart Foster.

During the year, library assistants perform such varied jobs as checking out books, shelving books and typing catalogue cards. These students receive a half-credit for their work and attend ten-minute instruction classes every two weeks. The Club is sponsored by Miss Frances Woltz.

The Projectionists' Club is composed of students who use their study halls to show classroom-related films. The Projectionists' Club was under the sponsorship of Mr. William Satterfield until February when Mr. Thelbert Fincher became the adviser. Mr. Satterfield became County Library Co-Ordinator. Mr. Fincher was killed in an automobile accident in May.

Great Books Club splits into three sections

read classics such as Gulliver's Travels, by Swift, On Liberty by Mills and Perpetual Peace by Kant.

A three-way split occurred in the Great Books Club and three separate clubs were formed. Senior, Sophomore and Freshman Great Books Clubs were begun to enable participation by more students. The Sophomore Club was not formed until late in the year; thus it was not possible to picture it in the yearbook.

Members of each Great Books Club met monthly and discussed classics such as Meno by Plato, Oedipus Rex by Sophocles and Ecclesiastes. Criticism of a book was conducted by a teacher while students discussed plot, purpose and philosophy.

At the beginning of the year club members purchased paperback books that were read and discussed at the various meetings. However, anyone could participate in the discussions if he had read the book being discussed.

After selecting the book to be read for a designated meeting, the club president would ask a teacher to read the same book and lead a discussion at the next meeting of the club. These meetings were conducted at club members' homes or at a teacher's home.

Any student may join the Great Books Club designated for his grade level. Many students purchase the club books jointly and take turns reading them before the scheduled club meetings.

Freshman Great Books Club members are (bottom row) Cynthia Thaxton, Betsy Davis, Kathren Emory. (second row) Connie Crews, Patricia Fox, Becky Abbott, Kathy Wood. Many activities jammed the calendar of Latin Club members. The club's float won second place at Homecoming. The Latin students entered the state essay contest which was sponsored by the Virginia Classical League. In March, they went to Jarmon Auditorium in Farmville to see the Longwood and Hampden-Sydney College Players present George Bernard Shaw's Androcles and the Lion.

In co-operation with other foreign language clubs, the Latin Club co-sponsored Language Week the first week in May. The highlight of the week was the annual Language Club Banquet.

Two regular meetings were held during the year. The December meeting highlighted Saturnalia, a Roman celebration corresponding in importance to Christmas.

The purpose of the Latin Club is to correlate the study of Latin students with extra-class activities. These activities are planned to entertain, to increase cultural appreciation and to provide supplementary information.

French Club students Betty Chaney, Freddie Jones and Marvin Bryant prepare a bulletin board for Language Week.

Language Week was the focal point of French Club activities this year. Members prepared interesting bulletin boards, practiced songs and skits in French, and published a literary magazine, The Pegasus. At the Language Banquet, held on the night of May 6 in cooperation with the Spanish and Latin Clubs, twenty-eight new French Honor Society members were inducted.

The French Honor Society includes those first and second-year French students who show the qualities of interest, scholarship and promise in the French language. Members are selected by French Club adviser, Miss Frances Howard, together with the club officers.

French Honor Society members are also inducted at the annual Christmas meeting of the club. At this meeting, members take part in retelling the Christmas story, in French, of course.

French Club officers were this year: Christine Hall, president; Jane Adkisson, vice-president; Beth Martin, secretary; and Barry Glenn, treasurer.

Spanish Club members published first edition

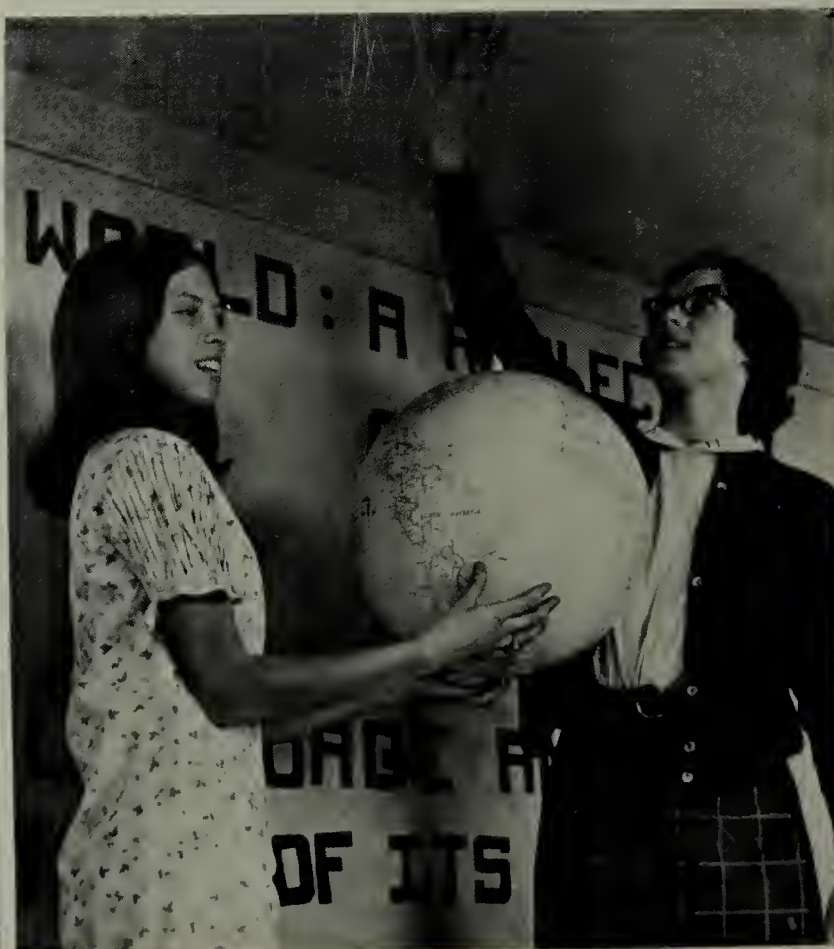

After days and nights of work in a drafty warehouse, the Spanish Club greeted alumni at Homecoming with its float, "After the Victory—a Fiesta." Some of the costumes worn by the students came from Mexico.

dition to the lobby display, the club also published a Spanish magazine during the week.

The publication of a literary magazine by the Spanish Club was a first for the club members. The magazine entitled La Festival De Literatura included poems, essays, and critical analyses of selections studied by fourth and fifth year students. The magazine, written entirely in Spanish, was edited by Betty Wooding.

A spring fiesta combined with the induction of thirty-six new members highlighted the year as did the annual participation in Language Week. At the Language Week banquet, Spanish students sang Spanish songs and gave a comical presentation of a bull fight.

During the SCA Christmas assembly, the club sang in Spanish some of the more popular carols of the Spanish-speaking countries.

To be eligible for membership in the Spanish Club, a student must have taken one semester of the language and must have maintained a C average. Also club members are expected to participate in the club activities and promote interest in the Spanish language.

Hali-Hi-Sci joins Science Clubs of America

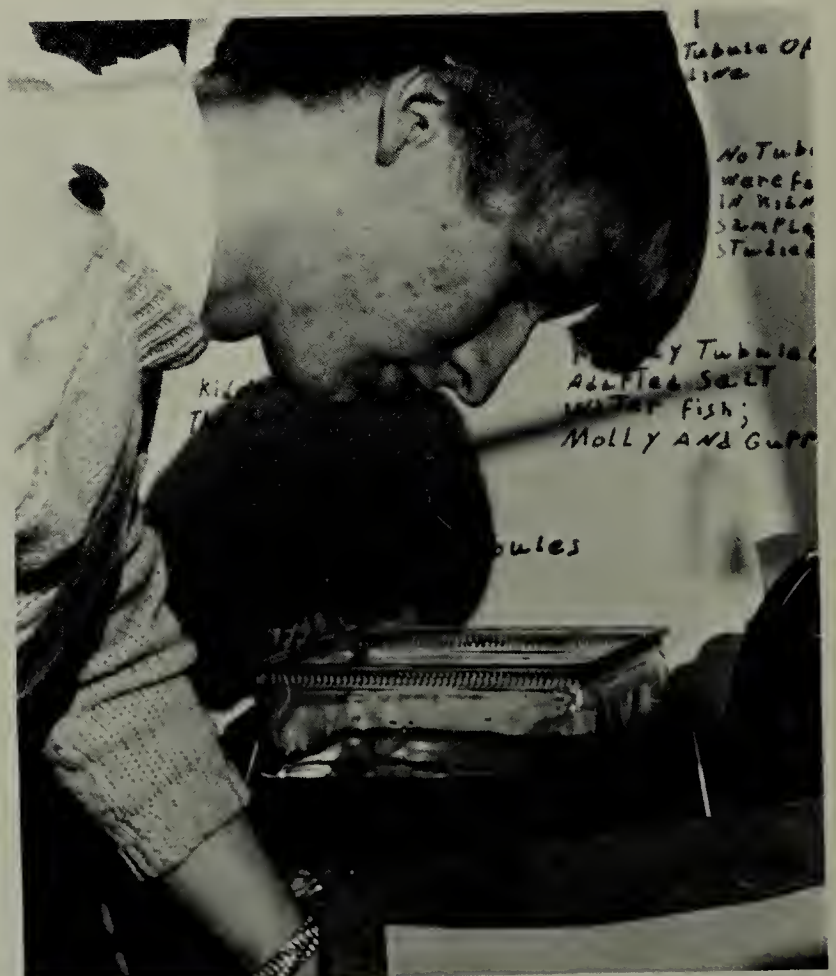

"Hali-Hi-Sci." What's that, students wanted to know. It is the new name of the Science Club.

An upgrading of the club took place when it affiliated with a national organization, the Future Scientists of America, and a state organization, the Junior Academy of Science. The club is also affiliated with the Science Clubs of America.

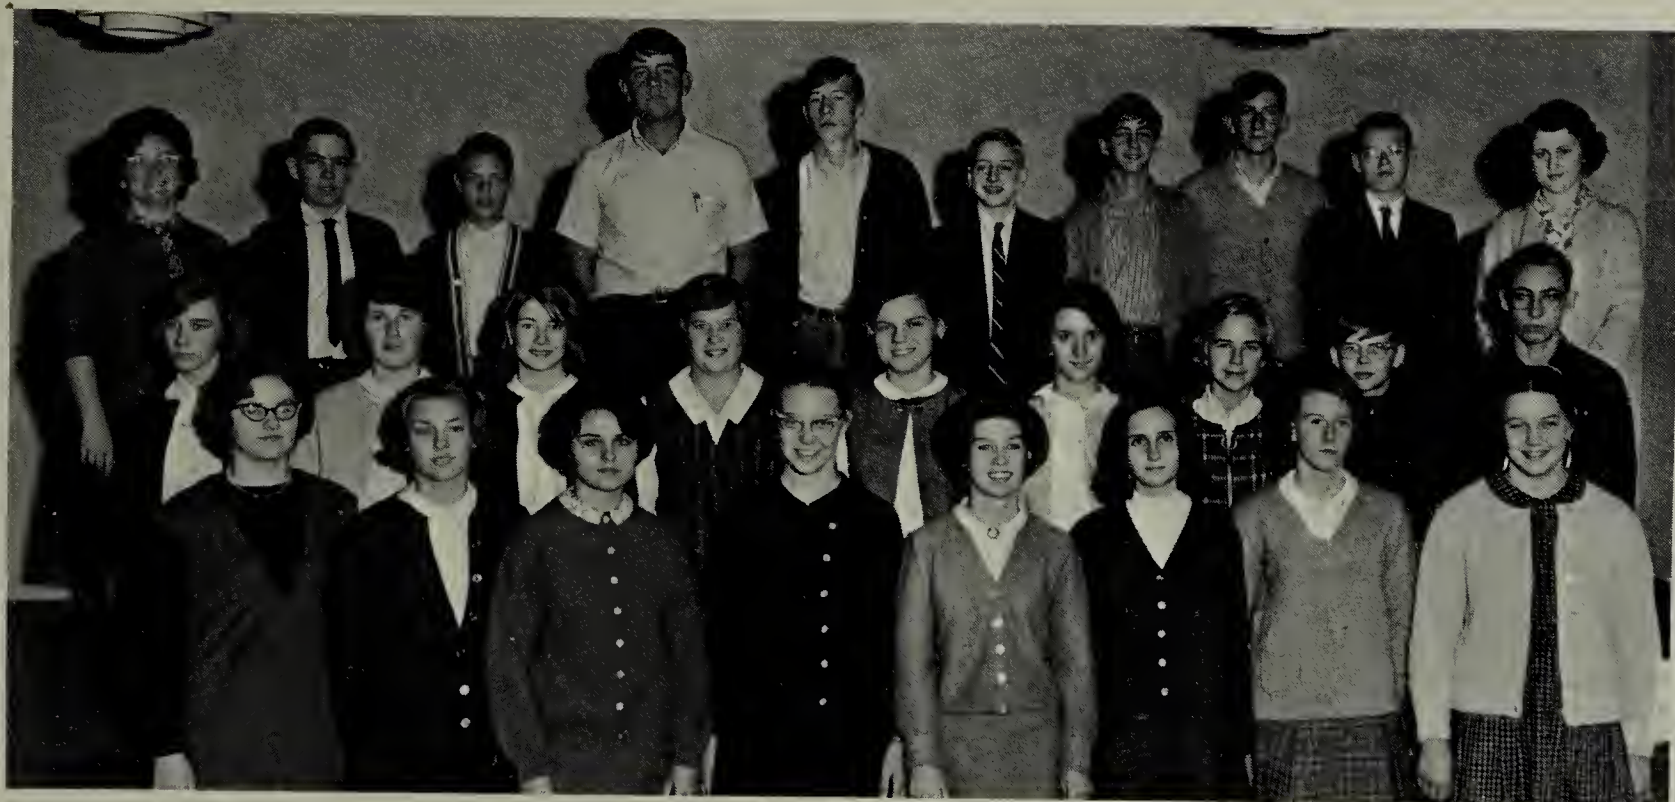

Field trips to Daystorm and US Plywood were features of the club's program of activities. Members had their choice of field trips. Science Club members ordered pins or insignias or both. The pins had the date of the member's graduation on them.

The Science Fair, which this year was in April, was the highlight of the year for Hali-Hi-Sci members. The Science Fair again had two divisions, the biological and physical, with awards in each division. The Hali-Hi-Sci sponsored the Science Fair to stimulate interest in science.

The Club ended its activities at the end of the year with a picnic at Staunton River State Park in May.

Youth for Christ conducts morning devotions

Youth for Christ was formed last year to help meet the spiritual needs of the students and it is still meeting these needs today. Members of all faiths are invited to join the organization.

Meetings are held before school for twenty minutes twice a week with prayers and a discussion on certain sections of the Bible at each meeting. Club members help with the weekly SCA devotions during the regular school day although the club is not directly connected with this activity.

These activities plus the Christian atmosphere help to give students a spiritual sense which they might not normally receive.

Guest speakers from the various churches of the county are often asked to lead the morning programs. Visiting evangelists are also invited.

Guest speaker at the morning devotions before school, Mr. Perry Ellis, singing evangelist, brought an inspiring message to the members of Youth for Christ.

Affirmative debaters enter state competition

While waiting for their sponsor, Mr. William Babcock, negative debaters Dick Sizemore and Ricky Michaels discuss their arguments for an upcoming meet.

Resolved: "That the federal government should adopt a program of compulsory arbitration in labor-management disputes in basic industry," was the topic of discussion when, for the first time in eight years, the HCHS Debate Team sent representatives to the State Forensic Meet. Charles Bagwell first affirmative, and Henry Patterson, second affirmative attended the meet April 22 at the University of Virginia, where they tied for third place with four other schools.

Prior to the state meet, Henry and Charles won the Western District championship in Salem. Other Debate Team members who participated in the district meet were Ricky Michaels, first negative, Dick Sizemore, second negative, and Janice Earp, alternate.

In preparation for district and state competition, the team participated in practice debates with other area high schools, and also gave a demonstration debate before the Halifax Lion's Club.

Debating activities were also extended to other interested students through the Debate Club. Its 28 members gave debates on various subjects to Speech Arts classes and other interested groups. The purpose of the club is to familiarize students with the art of debating and to prepare them for membership on the Debate Team.

Visiting Holifax Elementary School, FTA member Sarah Comer observes as Mrs. Lidie Gorber explains a problem to Eddie Willoughby.

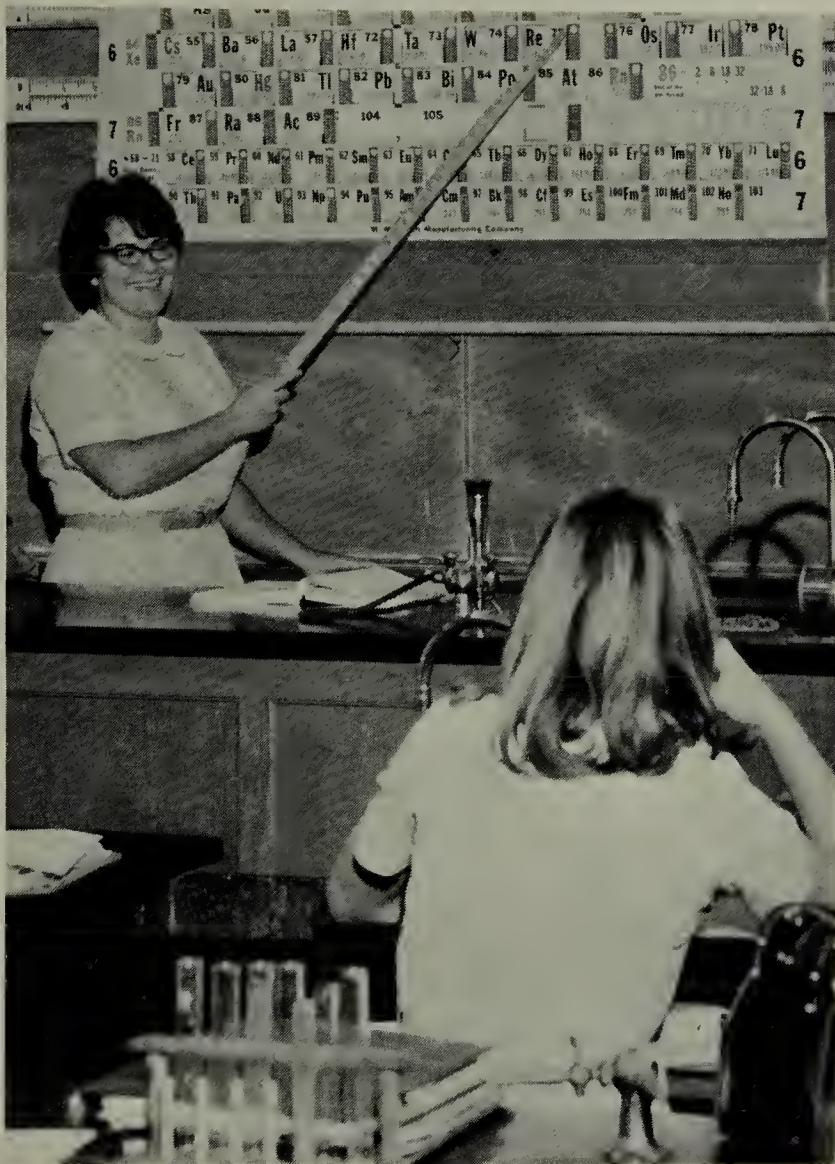

Besides its regular service to teachers, the Mary Owen Barksdale chapter of the FTA undertook several new projects to make this an eventful year.

In December, four FTA members attended the state convention at the Hotel John Marshall in Richmond. This was the first time that a delegate from HCHS was nominated and ran for a state office.

FTA members observed Teacher-Career Month in April. This fact was emphasized through newspaper publicity, bulletin board and posters. Forty future teachers visited county grammar schools to observe elementary teaching methods. Several members gained experience by serving as student-teachers.

Friends and families journeyed to Roanoke to support the three girls who represented the club on Channel 7's "Klassroom Kwiz." Also in May, members visited Longwood College in Farmville.

During the year, FTA members aided teachers by grading papers, preparing bulletin boards and acting as substitute teachers. Those with study halls helped operate the SRA Reading Laboratory, a course designed to improve reading speed and comprehension. This was the first year the clinic had been conducted.

to state-wide meeting

Dress-Right Week was the newest activity sponsored by FBLA. Members wore clothes that were correct for office work and constructed several bulletin boards showing correct office clothing.

Once again, the FBLA competed in the Longwood Regional Convention. They received a merit rating on the scrapbook and a second place parliamentary law team rating. Janet Parker placed second in Miss FBLA Contest, Susan Roark received a superior in public speaking, Barbara Howerton placed first in spelling, and Linda Hudson received outstanding in her essay. Barbara and Linda also competed in the state FBLA convention in April.

Money for FBLA projects was again raised by a candy sale in October and a bake sale in May. The club used this money to build their float entry in the Homecoming parade. After the conclusion of all projects, the members enjoyed a banquet in May.

To promote interest in business occupations and to create a better understanding of available office jobs is the twofold purpose of the club which meets six times a year. In order to become a member, a student must take at least two business subjects.

To join the FBLA, a student must take a business course like these girls in Mrs. Freeda Aker's class.

"V-i-c-t-o-r-y" is the chant as the members of the Pep Club cheer the Comets on to victory during a giant pep rally in the new stadium. The club had their own cheering section in the stadium this year.

"Hang on Sloopy" was the theme of the Pep Club's entry in the Homecoming parade.

buys victory flag, builds float, cheers team

A victory flag now flies as a result of a contest sponsored this year by the Pep Club. This flag symbolizes victory in sports, forensics, agriculture, journalism, and any other field.

The flag, designed by Annette Williams has the school colors in the combination of white letters on a background of Columbia blue. The word "victory" has the letter "V" enclosed in a star which represents the athletic achievements. In the upper right-hand corner is the lamp of learning which represents the scholastic achievements.

Once again the Pep Club sponsored a hat and coat check service at the home basketball games. Because the club did not sponsor any bus trips this year, all money made supported the club's project of the traditional Pep Club float entry in the Homecoming parade. The theme of the float was "Hang on Sloopy."

With their own special section, cheering the Comets at football and basketball games was the primary activity of the club. The club is composed of school-spirited students in grades 8-12.

A trip to the Raleigh Museum of Art was the Art Club's main activity. During the year members also sponsored an art contest at the school, a display of various paintings and drawings in the school lobby, and a Homecoming float.

The art contest was open to all students in the school, and prizes were awarded to the winning entries. All entries were placed in the lobby display case for the student's view.

The theme of the Homecoming float was "Comets Devour Falcons" and it featured a huge lion devouring the opposing players.

For the first time members sponsored a bake sale and sold Christmas cards in order to raise funds for club activities.

Requirements for membership in the Art Club are a "B" average, at least one semester of art, and a genuine appreciation of art. Meetings are held monthly at school or in the sponsor's home.

wins state vice-presidency with a trip to Chicago included

With one of the largest memberships in Virginia, the DE Club served the school by running the school store and by operating the Lost and Found Department.

DE Week was observed November 7-13 with a supper meeting, special radio programs and a reception for teachers. Then on May 18 the club members attended the annual Employer-Employee Banquet. At this banquet the outstanding DE student of the year received a trophy. Mr. Eugene Edmonds, affiliated with Leggett's Department stores, received an honorary life membership award.

In district competition Floyd Elliott was elected to the Junior Board of Directors, Barbara Irby won first place in advertising and John Noblin placed second in public speaking. Sandra Snead was elected state vice-president and took part in the National Distributive Education Leadership Conference in Chicago.

ICT Club takes first

Five wins in state competition and eleven wins in the district highlighted the ICT Club activities, whose trophies crowded the school's trophy case.

For the sixth consecutive year the club was selected the outstanding club in district V. Tommy Williams and Kitty Cole were selected to be the ICT Students of the Year for the district. Due to its outstanding work the ICT Club was awarded membership into the national organization of the VICA.

Other activities included an Employer-Employee Banquet on April 21. A district picnic at Fairy Stone Park was the final event of the year.

The club began plans for a new trophy case. Tommy Williams, president of the local club drew the plans for the completion of the trophy case and initiated its structure.

To enroll in the ICT program, a student must be sixteen years of age, must have satisfactorily completed the requirements for grade eleven classification and must be in a position to work a minimum of three hours daily. Upon enrollment a student is placed according to his occupational interests. Jobs are available in the fields of medical, technical, and engineering occupations.

"Good Health—A Valuable Asset" was the FHA theme for 1965-66. This theme was carried out through projects, programs, and displays throughout the year. Members also carried out this theme in an exhibit at the Halifax County Fair. During FHA Week various posters and exhibits in the lobby display case further emphasized the theme. To climax the Week's activities, members sponsored the annual Mother-Daughter Banquet.

For the second consecutive year FHA members won first place on their Homecoming float. The float's theme was "Sew 'Em Up", and it featured a large spool of thread with a needle and a pin cushion. A Comet player was shown "sewing up" two opposing players.

FHA members also served at banquets and worked as nurses' aides in the local hospitals.

Father-Son Banquet highlights year's activities

President Sherman Fisher presents Mr. Frank West with the Honorary Chapter Farmer award at the FFA banquet.

The award is presented each year to someone who has rendered outstanding service to the chapter.

for members of FFA

An FFA banquet highlighted the National FFA Week activities during February 19-26. "Agriculture is More Than Farming" was the theme. Students undertook a campaign to inform the general public about the importance of the agricultural industry to America and the growing needs for farming.

Mr. Alvin Thomas, Jr., vice-president of the Virginia Association of FFA, spoke at the Father-Son Banquet, climaxing the week. Special awards were presented to outstanding students who had done exceptional work with projects. Mr. Frank West was made an honorary chapter farmer.

Two seniors from VPI, Mr. Jimmy Ayers and Mr. Lewis Williamson, were the student vocational agriculture teachers. They helped with all phases of FFA work while they were here.

In November 40 boys were given the Green Hand Degree, the highest honor for new members.

Vocational agriculture teacher Mr. E. D. Patterson instructs Jimmie Anderson on correct surveying methods.

Mr. R. P. Owen and Mr. Raleigh Fuller inspect the Grand Champion steer raised by FFA member George Wagstaff. Mr. Owen and Mr. Fuller purchased the steer.

FFA officers are Bert Holt, secretary; David Shapard, reporter; Wayne Wilbourn, vice-president; Sherman Fisher, president; Jerry Puryear, sentinel and Larry Fears, treasurer.

Seniors' notebooks reflect seniors' world

A senior's notebook reflected and encompassed the senior's world. His notebook contained . . . standardized tests . . . HALISCOPE layout sheets . . . Beowulf notes . . . area reports . . . advanced Spanish, French or Latin vocabulary and grammar . . . sports' plays . . . Junior-Senior invitations . . . sketches for art class . . . physics' equations . . . college catalogues . . . telephone numbers . . . old, sharply-graded English expository essays . . . typing paper . . . daily newspapers . . . STAR ads . . . senior pictures . . . term papers . . . itineraries for ICT trips . . . ballots for Who's Who . . . Government Day returns . . . scholarship applications . . . copies of the GALAXY . . . sales' slips for white dresses and white coats for Class Night . . . play books . . . dates of the Rotary and Tuesday Woman's Club meetings . . . graduation announcements.

Representing seniors at Boys' State during the summer of '65 were Tommy Thompson, Henry Patterson and Vandie Saunders. Girls' State representatives (not pictured) were Joyce Terry, Lynn Maxwell and Luanna Campbell.

The Senior Class was entertained by the Junior Class on the night of May 13 at the annual Junior-Senior Prom. This year's theme was "A Night in the Mystic East."

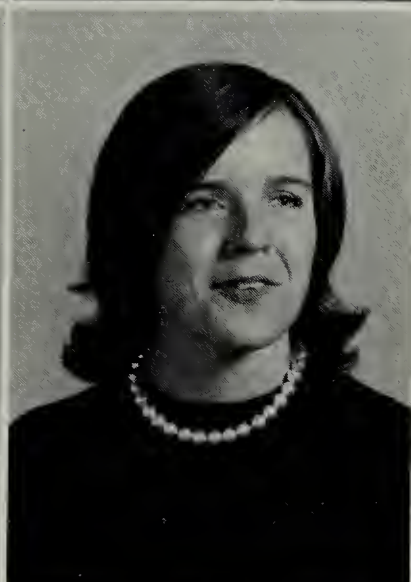

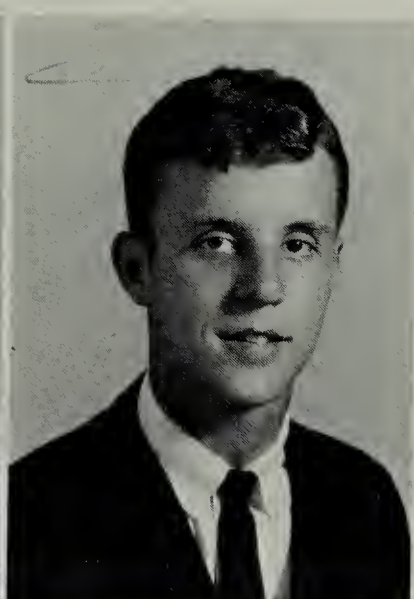

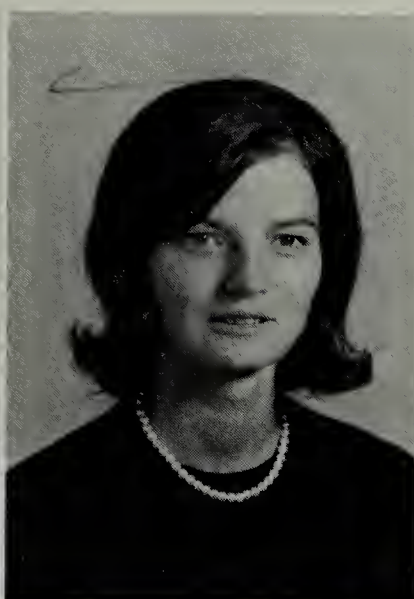

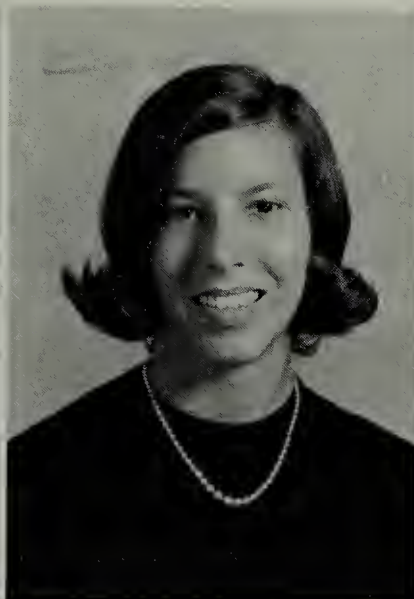

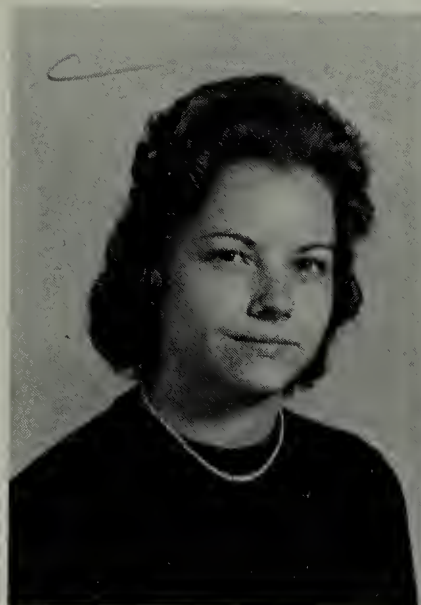

Senior members of the band and choir, among the other members, record selections for the first Holifax County High School recording album ever made. Made by RCA, two hundred stereo copies were on sale for $4.50 per copy.

Underclassmen are comics, critics, students

Underclassmen notebooks were filled with: drawings of their "favorite" teachers . . . exam schedules . . . flunked tests . . . term papers to rewrite . . . sports' plays . . . the latest jokes . . . gigantic lists of things to do . . . juniors' with definition of vocabulary words, chemistry equations, trigonometry problems, college board scores . . . sophomores' with Julius Caesar notes, algebra homework, biology drawings, unfinished STAR stories . . . freshmen's with Spanish vocabulary, pages and pages of grammatical terms to learn, advanced math problems . . . eighth graders' with science notes, history notes, unprintable criticisms of upperclassmen.

Relaxing after their lunch period are Jimmy Irby and Rita Elliott.

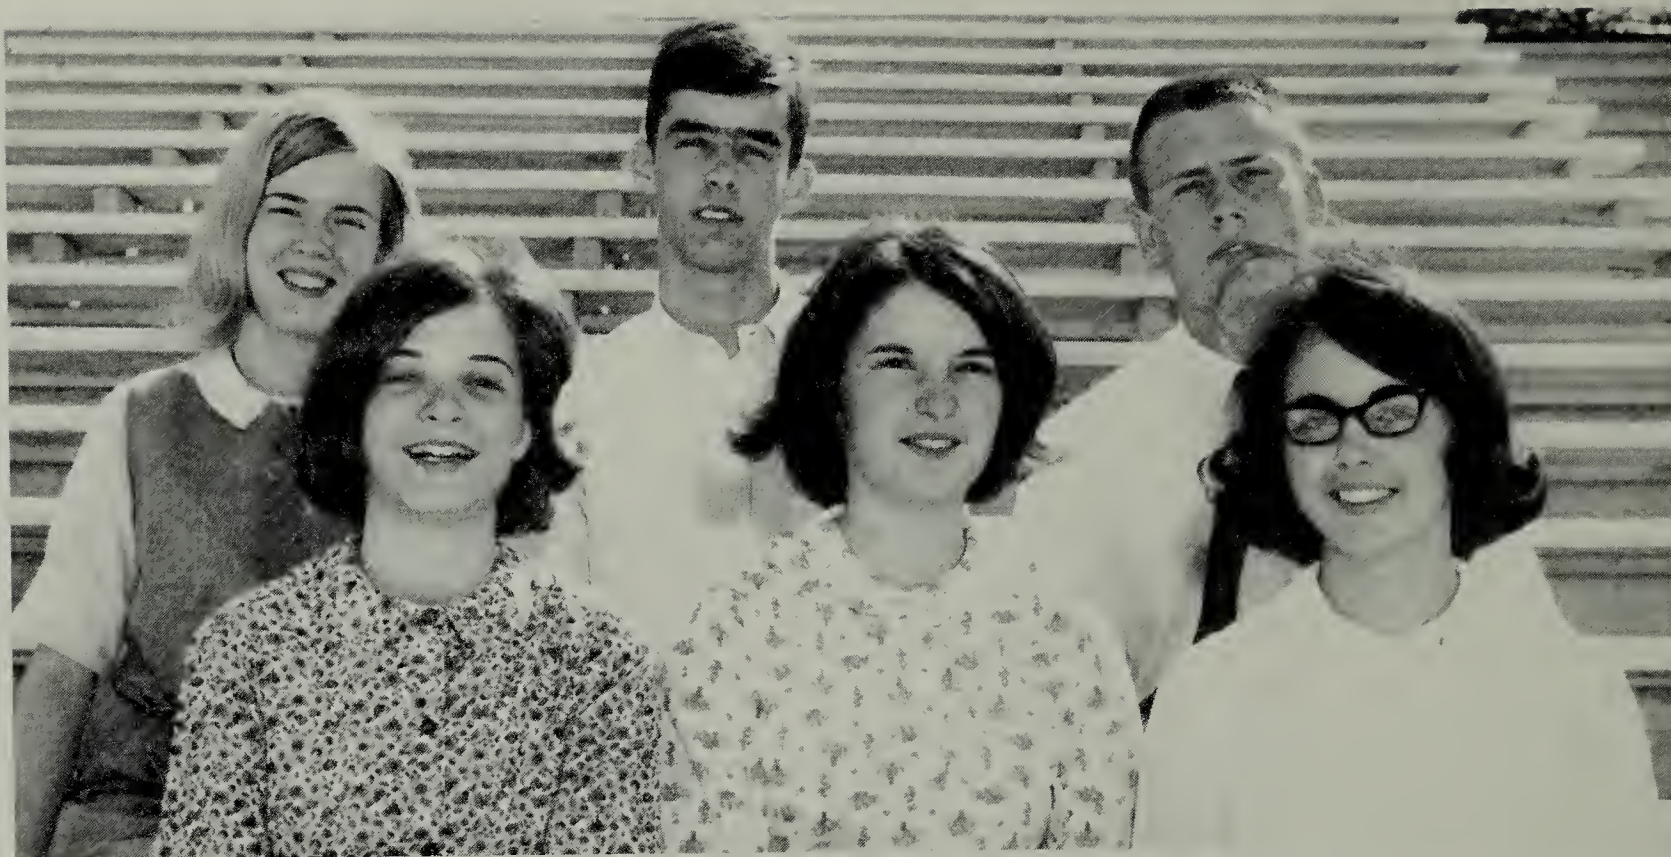

Sophomore Judy Chandler listens to and considers a point made by senior Dennis Brown in the lobby after lunch.

Donnie Anderson, Kent Thompson, and Eddie Wilkerson take time out between classes to carry on a conversation before their next class.

To juniors, 1965-1966 was a year of knowledge, responsibility, and activity.

Whether from the varied math and science courses or English term papers, they discovered the importance of knowledge as they considered college and careers. Many took college boards in January or May as a preliminary step to college acceptance.

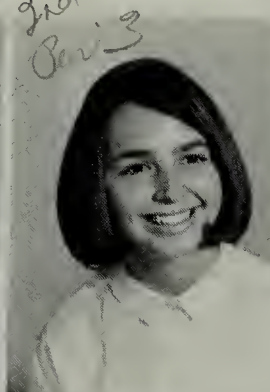

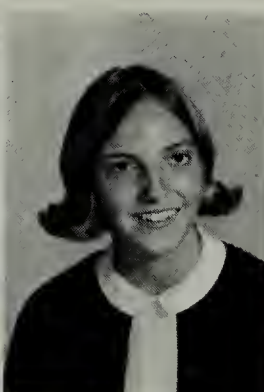

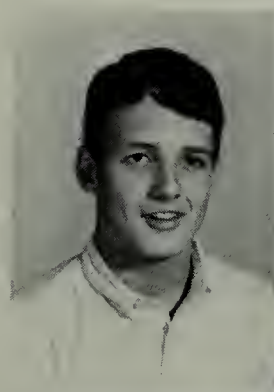

Measurements for senior rings reminded the class of the privileges and responsibilities they will gain as seniors. As they nominated representatives for Boys' and Girls' State, they pondered over many qualified members of their class. Many were eligible but only six could go.

At the Junior-Senior Prom on May 13 the juniors entertained the seniors at the social highlight of the year. The theme of the dance was built around an oriental motif and "James Brown" music was furnished by The Prophets and Disciples, a band from Washington and Lee University. For the first time in the history of the school, only members of the junior and senior classes could attend.

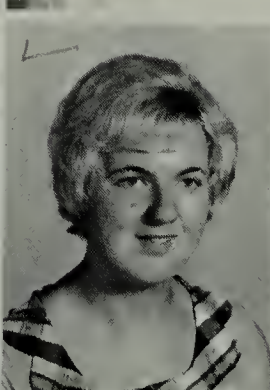

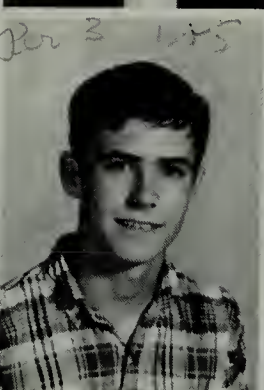

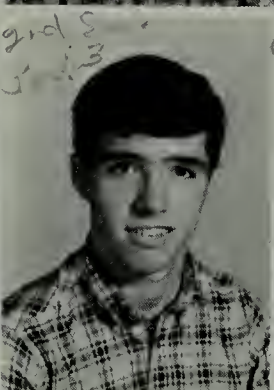

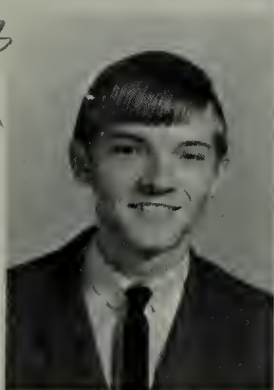

Ordering a 'class ring in the spring is a big event in a junior's life. Rebecca Elliott gets measured for her ring size by Mr. Raymond Smith of the Jenkins Company. Class rings will be delivered next year.

Taking an active part in academic and extracurricular activities has kept sophomores busy this year as they reached the midpoint of their high school career. They led the JV teams in their campaigns during the various seasons and a few sophomores participated in varsity football.

The SCA had many sophomore members and some were candidates in the SCA elections.

Journalism 10 was taken by some and five students were able to attend the Columbia Scholastic Press Association Convention in New York City.

Sophomores made themselves known as they got parts in the Fall Production and One-Act Play.

With Mr. Jack Strum as their sponsor, the sophomores presented their class assembly, "Shady Sadie and the Swinging Seven", a satire on the Snow White story. It was thought by many students to be the best class assembly of the year.

Freshman class officers are Wardie Lewis, president; Cindy Thaxton, vice-president; Dennis Ford, secretary;

Kay Owen, reporter; Bill Baskervill, treasurer; and Eddie Elliott, sergeat-at-arms.

NJHS taps qualified freshmen in assembly

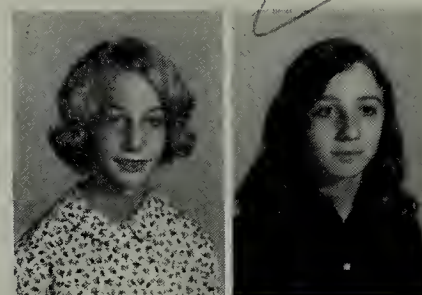

Stand back world! The freshmen have just begun their journey into high school life.

On the first day of school, the class was prepared, or at least it thought so, for the difficult tasks to come in the ninth grade year. But when chemistry, physics, Algebra I, Latin and Spanish stared at some of them squarely in the face, they lost some of their confidence and wished they were back in the first grade learning ABC's.

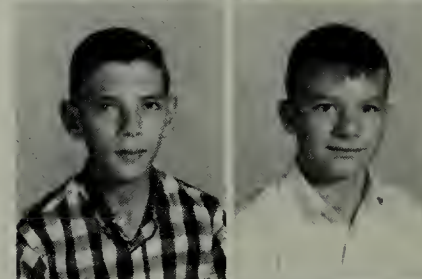

The class portrayed Pyramus and Thisbe, the Girl from A U.N.T., Hero 007, Santa Claus and many more of their most admirable characters in the annual Frosh assembly. They worked hard and enthusiastically over the assembly trying to reach a near perfection, knowing a good attendance meant more money for their future Junior-Senior Prom and senior gift.

Although the class may not know its way entirely, it might say, "we got one foot on second, and, hey, world we're bound for third."

Eighth grade officers are Nelson Thompson, president; Tommy Satterfield, vice-president; Jane Porter, secretary; Jimbo McGhee, sergeant-at-arms; Carolyn Painter, reporter; and Scottie Epps, treasurer. These officers led their class through a fine campaign for the United Fund.

Eighth grade entertains with talent show

The induction of the Class of 1971 into HCHS life was a whirlwind of classes, elections, sports, assemblies, and clubs.

Having a different teacher for each class was almost as thrilling as the new subjects eighth graders could take. Art, industrial arts, home economics, chorus, and agriculture were new educational experiences to add to the already-familiar English, science, math, and social studies.

The initial highlight of the year was the class election. Through the chaos which accompanies all elections, the eighth grade emerged united with six competent officers to lead them through the first year of high school.

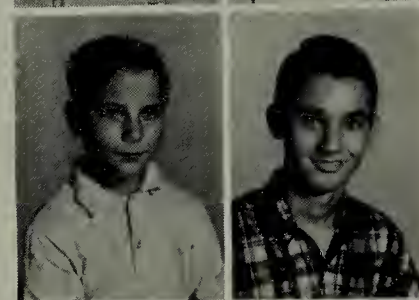

The pre-freshmen entertained the student body with three combos and a host of individual talent in their first assembly in February. Money from the assembly will go toward the 1969-70 Junior-Senior Prom and the 1970-71 senior gift.

Four eighth grade boys played on the JV football team while ten girls comprised the freshman cheer-leading squad. Eighth graders participated in the Pep Club, Future Homemakers of America, Future Farmers of America, the National Junior Honor Society, the Science Club, and the Eighth Grade Chorus.

About ninety-five per cent of the students ride a bus to school. Those pupils who get to school before 8:40 attend a supervised study hall in the cafeteria. After study hall, pupils socialize until classes begin.

City, town, county advertisers support school

The merchants of Halifax County and South Boston helped to publish the HCHS Notebook. They . . . backed the STAR, HALISCOPE and GALAXY . . . supported the Comets by buying advertisements in the Homecoming Program, selling season tickets for football, basketball and baseball games . . . attended the Sports' Banquet . . . provided jobs for students by participating in DE, DO, and VOT affairs . . . loaned furniture for the Fall and Spring Productions . . . invited the Marching Band to participate in their Christmas Parades . . . gave assistance to school projects by letting the students use windows for displays . . . sponsored Pegasus, the French literary magazine . . . provided the tuxedos and evening gowns for students who attended the Junior-Senior Prom . . . gave gifts to the graduating seniors.

At Triangle Florists in Halifax, Mrs. Miriam Burton shows Bob Brown a beautiful corsage for his date for the Junior-Senior Prom.

Senior Diane Lantor dreams of the future as she admires a beautiful diamond ring from Akers' Jeweler's in Halifax. Mr. Bill Akers, store manager, shows it to her.

The Centerville Rose Dari-Bar is a popular after-school gathering place for HCHS students.

An employee of Downtown Esso, Paul Francis, offers friendly and courteous service to Luanna Campbell.

Ginger Harrison admires a lovely flower arrangement at Giles Florist in South Boston. Similar arrangements are found at Halifax Flower and Gift Shop in Halifax.

Wistfully looking forward to the future, Ginger Harrison and Luanna Campbell look over the furniture and accessories that are featured at Francis and Watkins Furniture Store in South Boston, Virginia.

Gary Hudson helps Ginger Harrison fasten the bracelet she bought at Garland's Watch and Jewelry Shop.

One of Bobby Gravitt's many jobs at Gravitt's Super Market where he works after school is weighing produce.

As Ginger Harrison looks on, Mary Glass gets the feel of being behind the wheel of an Oldsmobile Toronado from Smith Motor Company. Smith Motors also has a complete line of used cars suitable for students.

Hedges Jewel Box in South Baston supports the Vocal Ensemble in their many activities during the year.

At the pocket book rack in the Fashion Naak in Halifax, Mrs. Elsie Vaughan helps Ginger Harrison select a bag that will compliment her summer wardrobe.

After a hard day at school, Mitch Wilborn relaxes on a sofa from Spencer Supply Co.

Bobby Frierson and Hope Irby look over the summer equipment at Wilborn's Hardware Store in South Boston.
